Although this yearbook class includes various class standings from Freshmen to Senior, the 1982-83 Yearbook Class joins together to create a sensational annual.

Steps to Making the Book

Mr. Smith discusses the cost, cover, and layouts of Lamar's yearbook with Mark David, factory representative from Taylor Publishing.

Three starlets, Stephanie Grayum, Peggy Preuss, and Cynthia Hall, sell packets of yearbook pictures ranging in cost from $5.50 to $11.00 to the student body.

Allyson Matheaus and Natalie Michulka are sorting pictures for English teacher's boxes and occasionally stop to admire a friend.

Annual's senior editor, Tamara Hanson, checks each picture to make sure the name is correct and the annual picture has been removed.

Excellent typing skills are essential for any yearbook student; Natalie Michulka types the copy and cutlines for the page she is working on.

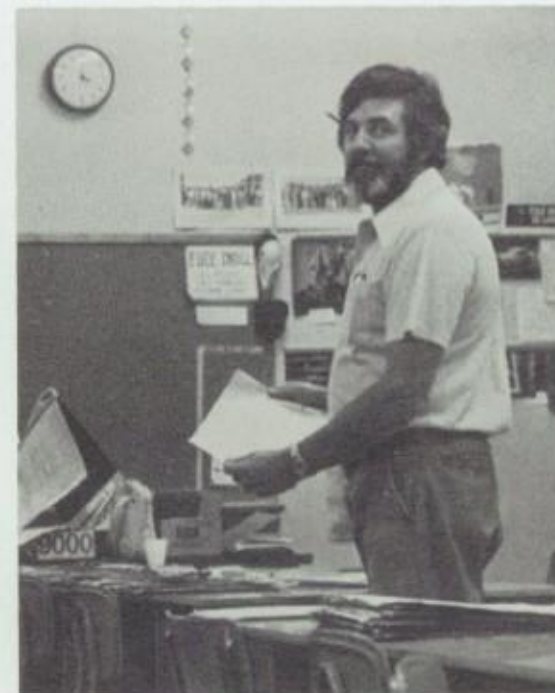

Karen Kiesling asks Mr. McDaniel about a picture for one of her pages; correct copy and cutlines are a must for any yearbook page.

A little excitement is in order when the yearbook class makes posters advertising yearbook sales; Kim Parks and Peggy Preuss use exciting colors and ideas for their poster.

Kelly Nichols watches a freshman sign his money away for a fabulous yearbook.

One of the more tiring jobs of yearbook is page sorting and the preparation to send the pages to the Taylor publishers; Mr. and Mrs. Smith spend long hours during the summer doing this tedious task.

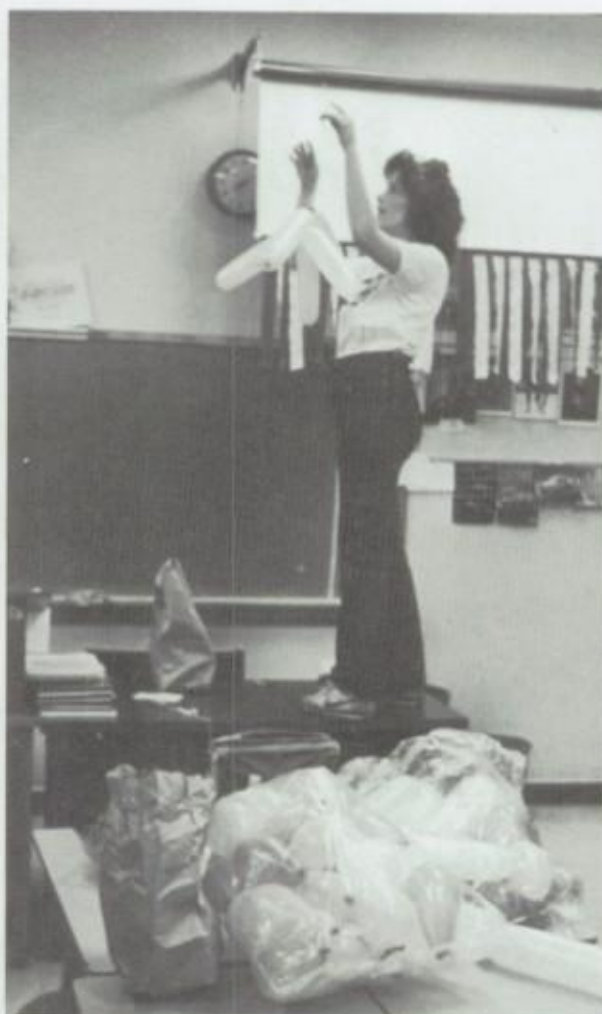

The final step to yearbook preparation is the delivery of yearbooks to awaiting student ranging from last year freshmen to last year seniors; Lisa Borak gives a yearbook to Mike Hall.

The Rewards of Being a Yearbook Student

The first reward for being a yearbook student is having a great yearbook sponsor; Mr. Smith receives an antique model car from the annual staff.

Another reward is joining together with great friends and adding spirit to the annual staff room.

A third reward for the yearbook student is a letter jacket encrusted with a letter and bars symbolizing hard work and creativity.

A fourth reward is attending the Annual Christmas party where food is consumed and bingo is played.

A fifth reward is the annual end-of-school party; barbecue and other delights were served for dinner.

At the end-of-the-school party, all the annual staff enjoyed the swimming pool and the Jacuzzi.

The Men Behind the Lens

The photographers have tough jobs. They are the ones that have to take pictures of banquets, parties, and before school of-ficer shots. The list goes on. They also help out the Herald Coaster and the Lamar Hoofbeat. They are the You-Name-It, We-Do-It People.

George Szymeczek rolls out the film to see which pictures he will develop.

Mike Parthum makes sure he has the right camera before going on an assignment.

Lee Weishiemer checks through some negatives to find the right one so he can reprint a picture.

Rodney Young has to make sure that all of the chemicals wash off the picture before it goes on the dryer.

Joe Bunton carefully mixes the chemicals so that he will have the right combination to print pictures.

Lamar Has the Passion —

At Lamar one can find a wide variety of new fashions. At the beginning of the year, the prairie look was "in." This trend lasted only a few months and was replaced with the punk look.

Dee McWhorter models the prairie look that was popular in the Fall.

"Friendship Pins" adorned many a shirt at Lamar.

Various decorations for fingernails appeared on the fashion scene this year.

Lisa Jankowiak catches on to the new wave haircut.

Amy Abendroth shows off her Marilyn Monroe jeans.

Jeanette Baumann proudly displays some of her new wave clothing.

For Keeping Up With Fashion

Lynn Gardner displays her handiwork in decorating tennis shoes.

Stephanie Lockridge knows what's "hip" by wearing leg warmers over her jeans.

Anthony Montoya and Lex Sheddman model their stylish "Vans" tennis shoes.

Bandannas were real big wrapped around the leg and/or waist.

Tiffany LeMaster shows off the Mexican-style dress that was popular this year.

Suede boots were in with Sandra Vaughn and other Lamar students during the year.

News Before the End of the Year

Former Hollywood star, Grace Kelly, married to the head of a royal European house, died in a car wreck at age 52.

A madman spiked Tylenol capsules with cyanide and killed 2 men, 4 women, and a 12-year-old for no apparent reason.

Sixteen years after his death, Walter Disney finished the Epcot Center which is a combination of world's fair, theme park and dream factory.

The Vietnam vets organized the "National Salute to Vietnam Veterans" and raised seven million for a memorial to their fallen comrades.

The monument has 140 granite panels inscribed with the names of all 57,939 Americans killed or listed missing in action in Southeast Asia from July 1959 to spring 1975.

Leonid Brezhnev, president of Soviet military expansion, died of a worn-out heart at age 75.

The founder of the Christian Phalangist Party, Bashir Gemayel, president-elect of Lebanon, was assassinated when a bomb was thrown into his office.

So What Else Is New??

There were many "new things" happening to Lamar over the school year. Some of the exciting things were study halls, new gym floors were added, we now have a "Mustangs" logo in the rotunda. The list goes on. We also bid a sad farewell to M*A*S*H, after 11 years on the air.

Mrs. Morris was chosen Secondary Teacher of the Year by the secondary teachers of L.C.I.S.D.

The Boy's gym (pictured), along with the girl's gym, got beautiful shiny new floors.

Lamar seniors along with seniors from other schools were treated to a speech by NFL quarterback Terry Bradshaw on Free Enterprise Day.

Hector Charles, along with his trusty Shasta, displays the new "Mustang Basket."

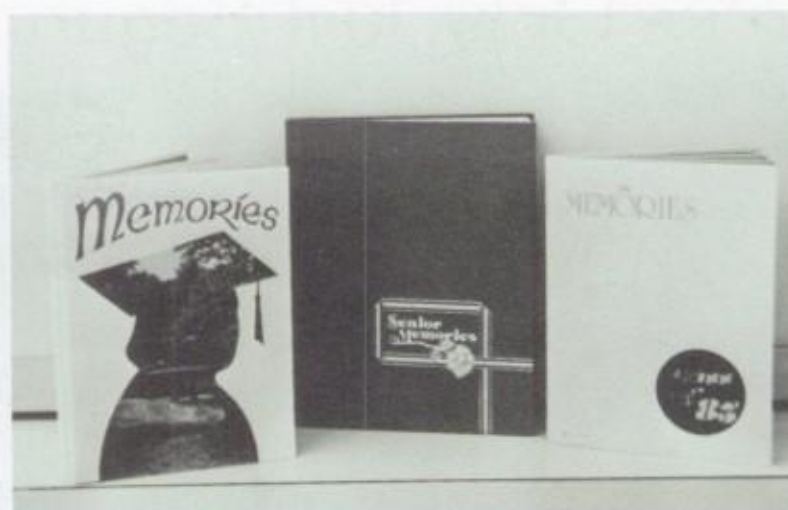

This Mustang Logo was donated by the Class of '82.

Lamar Consolidated Independent School District got a new swimming pool — The LCISD Natatorium.

Tapestry

A tapestry of memories hangs upon my wall.
I touch and with my fingertips trace and find them all.
The golden threads are laughter,
The somber ones are pain,
So delicately woven of many a lovely thing.
Cherished friends and childhood joys
I happily recall
From the tapestry of memories
That hangs upon my wall.

Senior Song

UP WHERE WE BELONG

First Verse:

Who knows what tomorrow brings;
in a world, few hearts survive?
All I know is the way I feel;
when it's real, I keep it alive.
The road is long.
There are mountains in our way,
but we climb them a step every day.

Chorus:

Love lift us up where we belong,
where the eagles cry on a mountain high.
Love lift us up where we belong,
far from the world we know;
where the clear winds blow.

Second Verse:

Some hang on to "used-to-be,"
Live their lives looking behind.
All we have is here and now;
All our life, out there to find.
The road is long.
There are mountains in our way,
But we climb them a step every day.

Senior Motto

The past is our heritage,
The present is our responsibility,
The future is our challenge.

The Seniors Immortal Words

- Greg Compean — I sure hope I march down the graduation line on May 20.
- Burke Kealy — High School is but 7:30 a.m. on the clock of life — Too late to stay in bed; yet, too early to go to work.
- Troy Ireland — Ah, Bummer
- Jay Henry — Steers and queers — no place but Austin.
- Jamie Deshazo — Let the good times roll!
- Roger Paiz — We now must travel; the roads of life we'll roam, the movie's finally over and E.T. must go home.
- Tamara Hanson — It's been real and it's been grand, but it has not been real grand.
- Lee Ohl — 12 years of school and I'm still a fool.
- Phillip Bowker — My senior year was the best weekend of my life.
- Melissa Beaird — Nacogdoches, Here I come!!
- Jill Davis — High School is like an accident . . . you never forget it and you never want to relive it!
- Barbie Borak — Let yourself go to life's extremes — you'll find your rainbow.
- Chuck Hilder — Eating at Lamar is just like eating on a prison farm.
- Tommy Anzaldúa — The reason Coach Masterson always dogged everybody is because he would always eat his ALPO.
- Jackie Dunn — At last I won't have to get up in the morning anymore.
- Cynthia Hall — Life is a bowl of cherries with great fruits for friends.
- Anthony Sherrod — Start off right, it pays off later.
- Mandi Svec — The party has just begun!!!
- Sucille Calderon — Education is the key to success!
- Ricky Guerrero — Keep it Shakin'
- Valencia York — I'm glad I'm a senior of '83 now I'm really going to be wild and free.
- Brian Dobrava — Don't you hate it when your socks fall down and your leg hairs stick straight out?
- Clayton Clark — Live for today girls, for tomorrow you might not be here.
- Renee Michulka — The Day Has Come — HELP!!!
- Sharla Powers — Keep a smile on your face and song in your heart.
- Dana Dromgoole — Harvard, Here I Come!!!
- David C. Thumann — They may not let me walk, but I am going to party!
- Denise Chambliss — Rock, Rock! Never Stop!
- Steven Ochoa — Life is an endless cycle.
- Bertha Perez — I finally made it after 12 long years.
- Missy Nowakowski — These four years were fun but now it's time to party!!!
- Danny Fazzio — 10 years from now I will still say that Lamar is better than Terry.
- Karen Carter — Life is but a dream . . .
- Michelle Duyka — High School — A stepping stone to college and it's worth the wait!
- Erma Gonzales and Cecilia Saucedo — No comment is the Best Comment!
- Lois Martinez — Graduation is the end of our new beginning.
- Mary Jalomo — The future is in good hands.
- Sidney Kern — Not everyone is perfect, but quit apologizing to those of us who are!
- Alice Hempel — Living well is the best revenge.
- Bill Pope — Gee!!
- Nelson Amy — In God We Trust.
- Sandra Fagan — Break out the champagne!
- Terri Green — SWTSU
- Jamie Johnson — After the 20th of May, if anybody wants to know about Young and the Restless, All My Children, One Life To Live and General Hospital ask me and I'll give you the rundown every day.
- David Mensik — Later on Lamar!
- Tysh Marshall — Graduation is a new beginning but life is the greatest challenge of all.
- Suzanne Macan — Life is Sca-rrry! So Get It Up!
- Clark Boyd — No Guts, No Glory, Go For It!!!
- Ann Jankowski — Doing your best is more important than being the best!
- Monique White — I regret only one thing — Not having PURPLE walls!!!
- Mike Bergen — Fellow peels, don't forget to visit "Hootersville" when things look dim.
- Laura Ubersnosky — The time now is the time to treasure.
- Kelly Nichols — Linebackers have more fun!
- Tami Jan — There are two types of people in this world, Czechs and those who wish they were!
- Dale Holub — It doesn't matter if you're late, as long as you graduate!!!
- Lawrence Zambrano — The cafeteria is one of the worst things in school, the food will kill you!
- Karen Sabrsula — Don't be sad and do not cry, Because the memories will never die!
- Libby Girndt and Laura Rogers — Thank God!
- Mike Ruehman — Your future is determined by your attitude and efforts.
- Becky Boswell — Thank You Mr. Rex Smith for being my teacher and friend, Luv Ya!
- Laura Rychlik — It's our turn to take charge.
- Mary Arlitt — So long, school — It's been grand — But it's time to move on to Aggieland!
- Cindy Benes — Our real characters and our lives are out there waiting to be discovered.
- Monica Ries — A smile from a friend can brighten any frown!
- Pete Stavinocha — The most important part of life, is to be remembered.

Washington, D.C.: Up Close

Alice Hempel was selected to go to an interview with President Ronald Reagan. She questioned the President on nuclear proliferation.

Steve Sutton, also selected to attend the White House briefing, asks about aid to third world nations.

The 9th annual Close-up trip was taken the week of January 16-22 by 59 seniors. This week was packed with lectures, a dinner theatre, talks with government officials, bus tours, walking tours, meals at "fabulous" restaurants, a free day, a banquet, a dance, group discussions, wonderful P.I.'s, and terrific sponsors. Close-up provided an education as well as a bright environment and many extracurricular activities. The Close-up trip also enabled the senior class to get more acquainted and for the senior class to meet three very spectacular people, Mr. Raymond Watson, Mr. William Kell, and Mrs. Jan Arrington. A fun and memorable trip was had by all.

Prom Night Brings Out a Gleam of Luxury

The Junior Class of 1983
of Lamar Consolidated High School
cordially invites you to the Junior-Senior Prom
Saturday evening
the twenty-third of April
Nineteen hundred and eighty-three
The Westchase Hilton & Towers
9999 Westheimer

Beverly Hall, Rita Harris, Valencia York, and Jamie Johnson are giving $5 to Mrs. Koenig for a thrilling night at the prom.

The 1982-83 prom was located in the beautifully designed ballroom of the Westchase Hilton on Westheimer.

An elegantly dressed couple, Laverne May and Judy Macha, splurged and rented a stylish limousine for the prom. — Not really, we faked it.

Each prom attendant received a copy of the senior wills, program and an engraved brandy glass.

Each male and female attending the prom were adorned in formal attire and beautiful flowers; Michelle Keefer adjusts her wrist corsage as Scott Dicus looks on.

In the sitting room several couples talk of the coming events of the night, and wonder how their previously taken pictures will come out.

Dana Warmke and her date, Bow Self, taste the delectables located on the buffet table with a swan ice sculpture.

Some couples were close and intimate, and other couples enjoyed the company of close friends, a good buffet, and the time to read senior wills.

The prom king and queen candidates, Mark Armstead, Mark Hippler, Jay Henry, Sue Kaminga, Esmer Perez, and Rosa Sanchez were honored with red roses. The 1982-83 prom king and queen, Mark Armstead and Esmer Perez were crowned by popular demand and danced together for a sparkling moment.

Prom '83

Several hundreds of couples danced the night away to such hot and varying tunes as the senior song, "Up Where We Belong," "The Cotton Eye Joe," and "Goody Twoshoes"; a disc jockey provided music, lighting, bubbles, and the fog.

For each couple to remember the glamorous night, Steinocher's took beautiful pictures in technicolor; long lines and the company of good friends surrounded each couple.

The Final Week —

On the last three regular days of school for seniors, they were given dress up days. These days were chosen by the senior class. One day was baby day, another was tacky day, and finally the last was a nice dress up day. Our seniors showed up in a wide variety of attire for the first two days, but on the "final day" the girls wore dresses and the guys wore suits and ties.

Right down to the black eye and bottle, Joe Buntton and Cynthia Hall show that they are ready to take on the world on baby day.

Some "senior babies" congregate in the rotunda before school.

Some rowdy seniors show their sometimes usual dress.

Tysh Marshall and Sherry Bell definitely look their best on senior dress up day.

Along with her snoopy lunch kit, teddy bear, and pacifier, Tamara Hanson shows her version of the baby look.

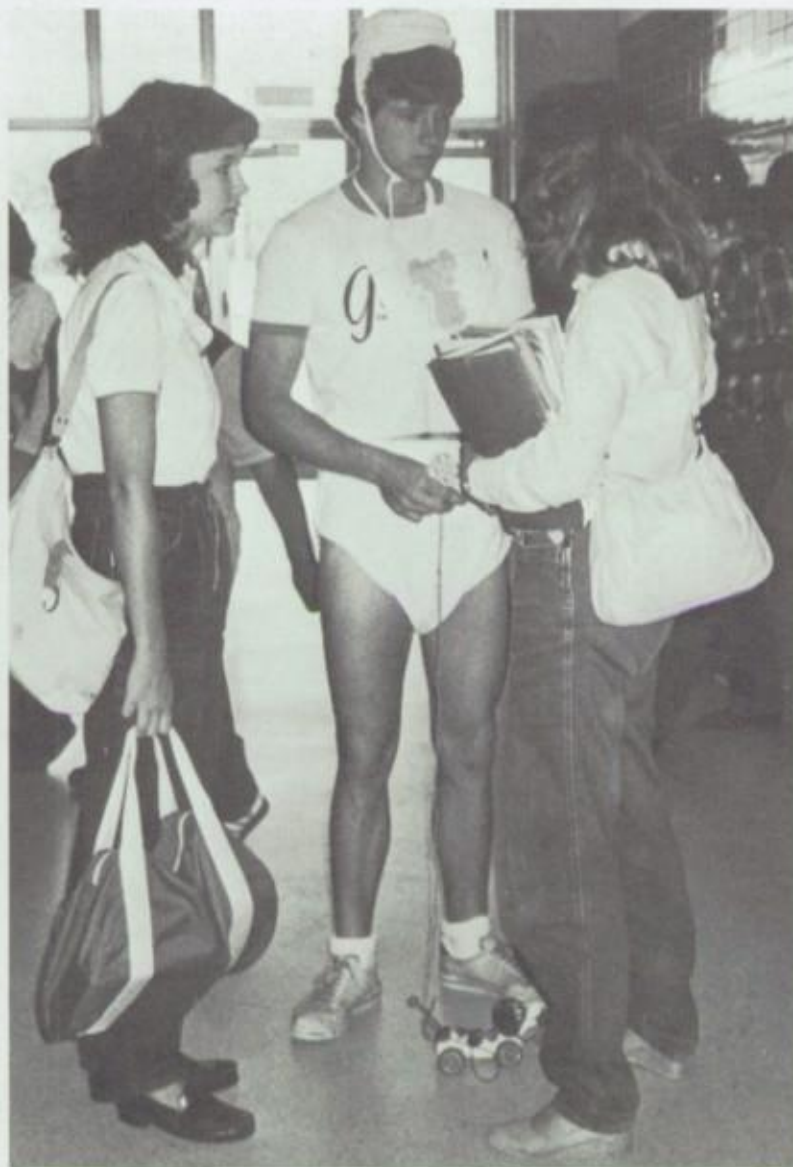

Maria Jalomo and Elizabeth Pena revert back to the little girl inside of them.

Going Out in Style . . .

Mark Starustka and Monique White take time out to pose and smile for the camera.

Tim Kolb lets his second personality take over on baby day as he talks to some underclassmen.

Erin Hancock, Mary Arlitt, and Suzanne Macan give everybody cheap thrills by showing off their tacky clothing.

Gifts, flowers, and a pretty dress go with the occasion on Dress-up day as Lois Martinez demonstrates.

Srs. '83 — A Class With Class

This year's senior class is the first split-class resulting from the Lamar-Terry split three years ago. Towards the end of the year all seniors typically got what is known as SENIORITIS!!!

Jim Kolb won't let his mask get in the way of his food on Halloween Dress-Up Day.

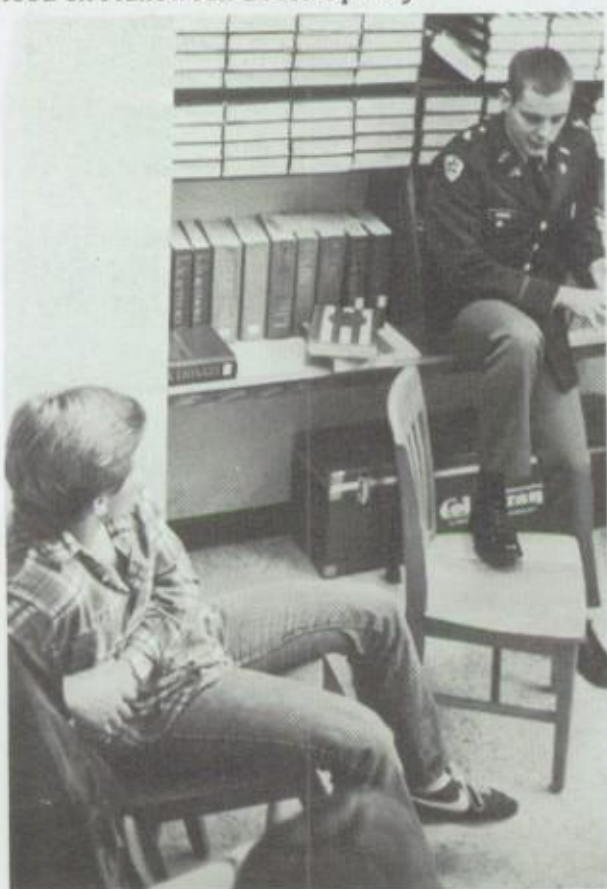

Sue Kaminga strikes a different kind of pose during her Art I class.

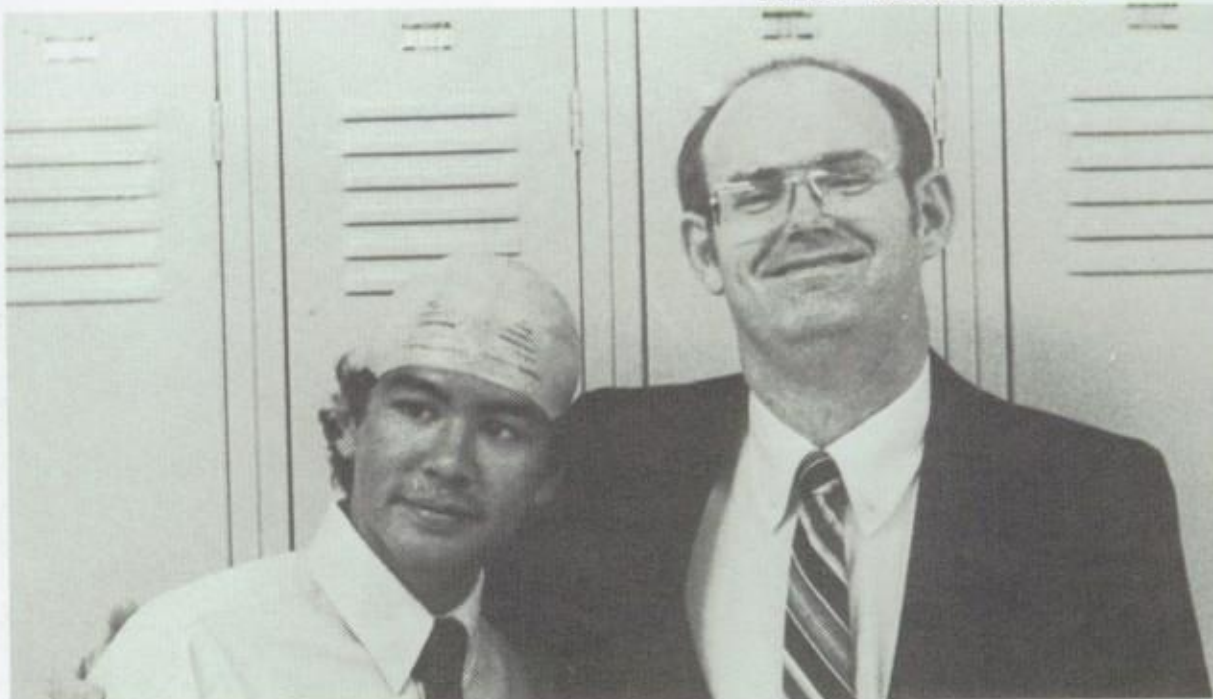

Cynthia Hall demonstrates how she would love to "roam the roads" on a motorcycle.

The Leaders of Tomorrow???

Denise Buzek "leaves her mark" in someone's memory book.

Lois Martinez and Sylvia Rodriguez gaze into the senior picture to find themselves as junior, Frances Vasquez, looks on.

Carolyn Zipprian measures to make sure that her cap will fit on the big night.

Sandra Fagan, Michelle Duyka, Rosalyn Mercer, and David Mensik try their caps on for size.

Dorothy Beeler was selected as "Miss Fort Bend County" and will go on to compete in the Miss Texas Pageant.

Bill Pope and Mike Parthum carefully fill out their order forms for invitations, name cards, memory books, etc.

Cristal Blase snatches away her cap and gown as Cynthia Hall and Lucy Kunkel look on.

Seniors Pig It, Roll It, and Fruit It!

Laura Rychlik, Karen Kresta, Dana Warmke, and Cathy Grawnoski select delectables such as pig-in-the-blankets, cinnamon rolls, and fruit.

Cynthia Derr serves seniors orange juice with a smile and a hearty congratulations.

Ann McClung and Judy Deshazo try to decide whether to get a cinnamon roll or a muffin.

Cynthia Derr and Shirley Hicks decorate for the Senior Breakfast which started at 8:00 o'clock sharp.

After serving students in the area of English, Mrs. Cooper serves Laura Rychlik and other candidates fruit salad.

D) An admiring baccalaureate attendee, Shawn Hein, dreams of the year 1995, in which he will attend his baccalaureate service.

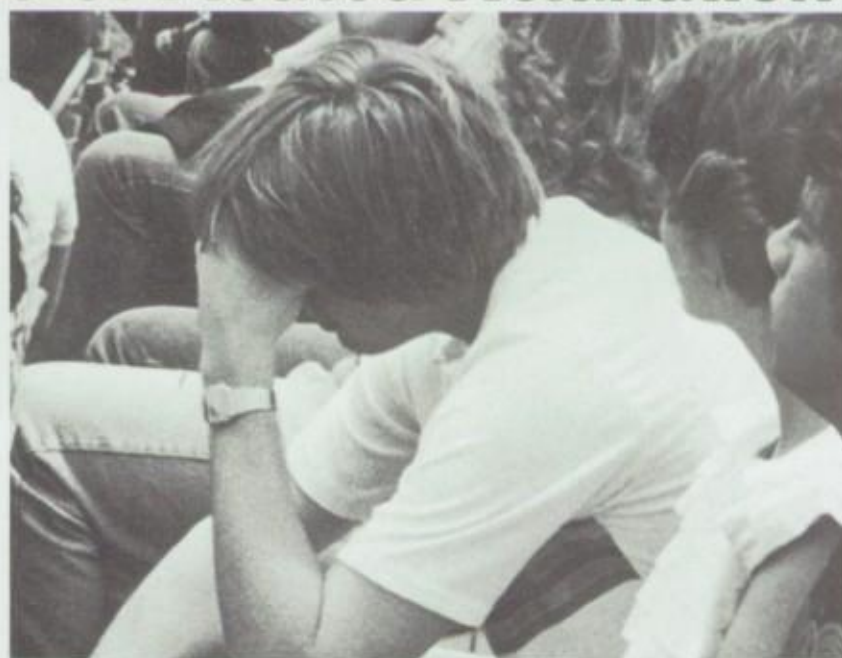

Graduation Practice: A Time of Heated Relaxation

Mr. Richard Smith fumbles with 244 plastic diploma wallet cards provided by the Fort Bend Federal Bank.

Cathy Keith and Barbara Hasch march through rows of chairs to their destination, the gate.

Several candidates reminisce of old times; and others, such as David Halvorson, wish they could get out of the glaring sun.

During an hour practice, several emotions arose from candidates. Many seniors could not believe that their time to graduate had finally arrived. Others could not believe the weather could be so muggy and hot. Several others dreamed of the night when a diploma would be handed to them. Then severe weather came and graduation waited for two days.

Sounds of cheering Mustang fans echoed throughout the football stadium, but ten voices could be heard above all the rest. These were the voices of the most spirited and perhaps the most dedicated students of Lamar. The cheerleaders. Aside from cheering at varsity football, basketball, and volleyball games, the cheerleaders held workshops for junior high and elementary students. They taught the children cheers, jumps and chants. They attended a camp at SMU during the summer where they received three spirit sticks, four superior awards, an outstanding award, and a supersquad ribbon.

For added entertainment at the Angleton pep rally, the cheerleaders dressed up as Angleton cheerleaders, and demonstrated a few of their not so talented moves.

The drill team had a busy year. The officers attended officer camp at San Marcos during the summer. The rest of the drill team went to a home camp held at the school. The Fillies went to a contest in Conroe where they received "1's" for their jazz, ladder, disc, and military routines. They also received a sweepstakes trophy. The officers got a "1" on their routine and Nancy Raesner was a finalist in the solo competition. At the contest in Dallas, the Fillies received a "1" on their kick and military routines and a "2" on their ladder routine. The officers received a "1" for their routine. The Fillies performed during halftime at football and basketball games. The Fillies finished the year with a spring review. The drill team presented various routines that they had learned through the year.

Perhaps the Lamar Pep Squad yell should have been: "We are small, but we are loud. We're the pep squad that makes you proud!" Mrs. Davis, the pep squad sponsor, says she thinks the reason for the dwindling number of members is simply lack of interest. The thirteen members that did make up the pep squad did a great job throughout both football and basketball seasons. They made run through and victory signs for the football team. They performed hand routines with the drill team at pre-game. After the football and basketball seasons they were left with much free time so they learned aerobic dances to stay fit for the coming year.

The Lamar pep squad looks over the crowd for familiar faces before starting on the long journey ahead.

Matching a pretty corsage to a pretty face, Kristi Rice displays her mum streaming with ribbons.

The aroma of mums and boutonnieres filled the halls. The clank of cow bells and the rustling of ribbons rang throughout Lamar. Proud smiles of those with mums from family and boy-friends mixed with the disappointed frowns of those who had been left out. There were endless discussions of who was going with whom and where everyone else was going. To many it was just a football game that you had to dress up to go to, but to others it was the one night they could break their curfew.

Does a double mum mean double the affection? Nancy Toman and Randy Harrison think so.

Finding room for lunch with all the mums, roses, and flower boxes on their table is impossible as drill team sisters share the thrill of a mum with friends. Sisters pictured: Nancy Raesner, Monique Grant, Alice Hempel, Monica Ries, and Lori Reed.

You've Come a Long Way

Cheerleaders with hairy legs? A drill team without pointed toes? Twirlers who drop their batons? Football players with ponytails and makeup? This could only be the annual Powder Puff game. An event of extreme magnitude to the Juniors, who have tried hard for the last several years to beat the Seniors, but to no avail for the Senior Sensations beat the Junior Jawbreakers, 6-2.

Sweat and Pain Is

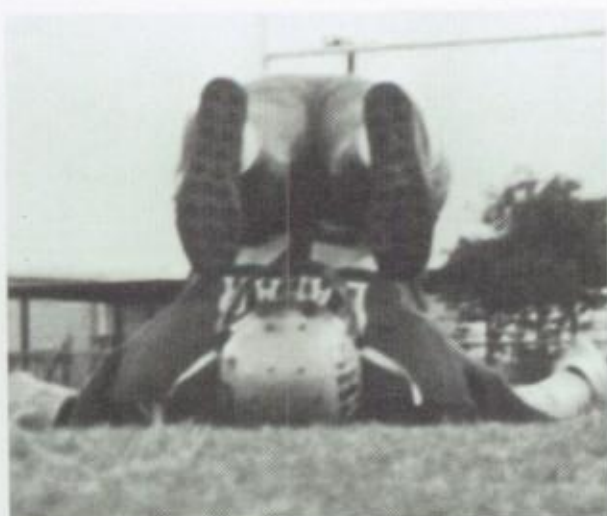

It has been three years since the Lamar Mustang Varsity Football Team has reached the playoffs. This year, under the new leadership of head coach Don Landes, the Mustangs battled until the next to the last game of the season before being eliminated from the playoff race. With excellent coaching and a determined group of men, the Mustangs managed a more than respectable 6-3-1 overall season, and a 3-3-1 district outcome. At the end of the season, several Mustangs were chosen for district honors. Those making first team all-district were: Mike Brown, running back; Andrew Lindblade, tight end; Greg Hein, tackle; Mike Ruehman, guard; and Jimmy Pavlu, defensive secondary. Those making second team all-district were Mark Armstead, quarterback; Pavlu, running back; Will Hollas, tight end; Nelson Amy, defensive end; Richard Albertson, linebacker; Mark Hippler, defensive tackle. Those making honorable mention were: Armstead, defensive secondary; Jim Kolb, defensive end; Hollas, linebacker. Will Hollas also received the sophomore of the year honor.

Facing stiff competition, Junior Varsity compiled a 5-5 record despite slimming numbers. Although J.V. drew players from the sophomore team, much of the extra help that was obtained was recruited by the Varsity. With a lack of numbers and many or all players playing both offense and defense, J.V. lacked the necessary punch in the second half.

Shelly Parker flies through and over Bucaneer defenders en route to the basket.

... The Ball Bounces

The road to success was a rough one for the Mustangs this year. With the likes of Victoria and Dulles in the race for district spots, the Mustangs faced tremendous competition. Lack of height and inexperience were the main problems facing Coach Fileto and troops. With guts and pride the Mustangs gave the district powerhouse a run for their money. The Mustangs ended with a 2-11-1 district record.

David Halvorsen keeps his eye on the basket as he attempts one of his two free throws.

With a little showmanship Ron Reid lays in two points for Lamar.

Travis McGee and Robert Bayer make an opponent basket, a hard to come by achievement.

The J.V. Basketball team faced much of the same problems as did the varsity. Opponents were larger and more experienced than the Mustangs. Though small, the Mustangs were smart and fast. Many opponents bit the dust behind the blinding fast breaks and steals of the Mustangs. Taken from available scores, the Mustangs had a 7-4 district season record.

Although the Lamar Varsity Track Team, as a whole, did mediocre this season, the mile relay team and one particular person deserve mention. The mile relay team, consisting of Clint Cone, Freddy Rodriquez, Mark Armstead, and Roderick Wilson, came in third place in the district meets with a time of 3:24.82. The particular person who deserves mention is Outstanding track man of the year, Roderick Wilson. He was the anchor man of the mile relay team and also went to regionals in the 100 meter and 200 meter dashes. He placed eighth in the 100 with 10.9 time. He placed ninth with 22.25 seconds in the 200.

Lamar's Varsity Baseball Team had an excellent coach, Bob Masterson, and exceptionally well-trained players. What they did not have was luck. Their record of 3-18 did not show that they had the talent and thorough coaching they received. The team had a slow start with a first game in which they did not score. However, their playing climbed between peaks and valleys as the season progressed.

GIRLS GOLF TEAM MEMBERS — Debbie Benes, Sydney Kern, Coach Ruth Ansel, Jill Davis, Leslie Lee.

The girls golf team competed as medalists. This means that there was not enough individual members to make up a team of five persons. One or all compete as an individual in one or all of the nine tournaments. A school can win tournaments with a group low par total for the course or win as a medalist with a low par score. A single player with a low score in the district tournament can go to play in the regional and hopefully on to the state. This can happen as a team (5 members) or as an individual with a low par. This however was the year of medalists who polished up on strokes and technique and become a threat in 1983-84.

The Lamar Mustang Band received a new director, Mr. Robin L. Watson. Mr. Watson graduated from West Monroe High School in 1961, and Northeast Louisiana University, in 1972. During these years he achieved many special awards like the John Philip Sousa award and the Music Guild Award, while still in high school. In college, he was a member of Jazz Ensemble on USO European Tour in 1963, and Chairman of ASBOA, Region IV, in 1973. Mr. Watson previously taught at New Boston High School, in New Boston, Texas. The Lamar band is happy to have a fine man like Mr. Watson and hopes he will become a lasting stature at the band hall.

Keeping the Band on the Right Foot

Assistant band directors play a major role in the high school band. They help the band during football season to get the halftime show on the field, and they also hold sectionals during concert season in order for the students to learn the music better. Without assistant directors the band would not be as good as it could be.

Mr. Watson, intently concentrated in stage band music, looks over to see who is off beat.

Those Who Run the Band . . .

Officers are elected by secret ballot at the beginning of the marching practice season by fellow band students. The officers take on all the responsibility of running the activities of the band. They organize fund-raisers and take suggestions from the band on how to make things run smoother. The eight offices are filled only by seniors.

Striving for Perfection

Running through the halftime show, students step off to enter the field.

During after school practice, flag corps practices the routine that features them.

Standing at attention is one of the band's hardest positions to hold.

Using a step two, band students file out of their line to enter the field.

Trying to get the show ready for Friday night, the band practices long, hard hours during the week.

Colorguards Add

Band members who are skilled at twirling flags and rifles compose the band's colorguard. Colorguards, which was originally called the flag corps, obtained this name because it is now composed of flags and rifles. The colorguard, directed by Claude Hedspeth, adds all the frill and excitement to many of the pieces played by the band. They perform routines designed by their director which are made to dramatize the loud and soft sounds of the music. Tassels are put onto the ends of the flags and rifles to produce a shimmer while moving.

The Muscles Behind the Band

The Loading Crew, composed of seven seniors and one junior, helps the band by loading and unloading the instruments before and after the football games. Senior boss, Kirby Nelson, kept the guys organized for speedy loading and unloading. The Loading Crew is greatly appreciated by the band for their outstanding job. The Loading Crew is selected by the senior boss. The senior boss selects a loading crew composed of seniors and one junior who becomes next year's senior boss.

We Do a Little More to Provide a Little Extra

Working hard throughout the year and practicing extra hours for public performances, stage band introduces a variety of music. They open up the world of jazz, blues, and rock. Popular tunes of the radio stations are shed in a different light when the notes of the songs sing from the bell of a trombone or sax. Christmas music is brought to life as well as the easy listening type of music. The crazy and care-free attitude of Hawaiian shirts and sneakers does not interfere with the quality of any performances put forth through their extra effort. The stage band even talked director Robin Watson into Hawaiianizing himself.

Open house visitors were entertained by a little jazz.

Allen Houston provided a back-beat for the choir's performance during lunch in preparation for their U.I.L. competition.

While practicing for an assembly, a few band members lay back during measures of rest.

With Kathleen Ellison on bass and Denise Chambliss on electric guitar, the stage band "rocked out."

Trombonist, Kirby Nelson solos for the student body.

The stage band went Hawaiian for the assembly, donning jeans, white sneakers, and their authentic Hawaiian shirts from the blue light special at K-Mart.

The Pressures to Be Perfect

Extra desire and drive is required of people who push themselves into a competitive event when time is short, work is hard, and practice time is fleeting. This extra effort speaks well of all those who made the attempt, regardless of the results.

Freshman Region Band members are: John Collins, Juanita Reyes, Anne Pater, and Keith DeWitt.

District members are Kneeling, L to R: Lori Massey, Lesli Massey, John Pylate, Karen Graves. Standing, L to R: Allen Houston, Daniel Almanza, Dia Morrow, Brad Brown, Jon Albertson, James Arnold, and Wendy Wise.

Region members are Sitting: James Arnold, Dia Morrow, Lori Massey, Wendy Wise. Standing: Jon Albertson, John Pylate, Brad Brown, Daniel Almanza. Kneeling: Allen Houston.

All-Region Orchestra members are: Jon Albertson, John Pylate, and Brad Brown.

And We Honor Our Seniors . . .

The band banquet is held at the end of a hard year's work just in time for the recognition of those outstanding people of the musical world. The banquet is in honor of the seniors, and at this time, the outstanding members for the year are brought forth before proud parents.

OUTSTANDING JUNIORS — Lori Massey, John Pylate, Lesli Massey, Allen Houston, Jon Albertson.

At the request of the seniors, Mr. Watson dug up all the marching contest films from the previous three years and ran them to stir old memories.

Mrs. Knobloch and her son John Pylate proudly receive Chuck Knobloch's John Philip Sousa award. Before contracting leukemia, Chuck also received a chair in the first region band.

The assistant band directors joined in the festivities of the banquet, accompanied by their wives and they were seated at the V.I.P.'s table.

. . . and Juniors and Sophomores and Fish

OUTSTANDING SOPHOMORES — Sitting: Melody Weaver, Vera Lynn Weese. Standing: Allison Lindblade, Pam Sindel.

The Final Performance

Graduation: the time that all seniors play their horns for the final time in school, before their parents and with their friends. Most of them will never pick up their horns again. Many of them will go on to become professionals. However, shouts of joy were heard as the newly graduated seniors congregated in the band hall for the last time to take apart the old horns.

Daniel Almanza attempted to make them laugh, but Trombonists Kirby Nelson and Brad Brown cling to their diplomas and refuse to smile, (but Brad gives in).

With contra bass clarinet in hand, Bryan Gardner (left) and David Mensik (right) on baritone sax, these two seniors prepare to play the "Alma Mater" for the last time.

Wendy Wise clutches a Kleenex, holding back the tears as she watches some best friends graduate.

Seniors Sidney Dane and Larry Chalupa don't seem to be bothered to be playing the "Alma Mater" for the last time.

Sporting his senior clad apparel, a class ring shines through the night to prove that Clark Boyd has "finally made it."

Funds for Florida MAGAZINE SALES

The band has many fund raisers to help them pay for the trips taken during the year. Many of these projects include the annual magazine sales, the Walk-a-thon, and the Bar-b-que. The band experimented with two new projects that were the Garage Sale and the Pizza sales. The band tried to raise money to take two trips, one for the concert band and one for the symphonic.

Brian Gardner looks at his magazine list to prove that "Penthouse" is not in it.

Mr. Knight shows the band students some of the prizes they could win.

Eager band students look to see what magazines they might order to help the band raise money.

Walk-a-Thon Walk-a-Thon Walk-a-Thon

Mr. Hedspeth watches with intent as Anne Pater signs his sheet to prove that he walked the full ten miles.

Evelyn Luna looks at the time keepers to make sure no one cheats on his miles or his time.

Mr. Hedspeth questions Anne Pater to see if everyone made the whole ten miles without dying.

Fast Green in Time of Need

To add a little more money to the treasury, the band held the annual Bar-b-que, sold pizza kits and held a garage sale at the Civic Center in hopes to raise enough money for both bands to take a trip.

Lucille Calderon delivers pizza kits to the teachers lounge.

Band students intently wait for the truck to deliver the pizza kits sold over the last week.

Eager customers sift through the stacks of records at the big old fashion garage sale.

The sign outside the American Legion hall announces the upcoming Bar-b-que.

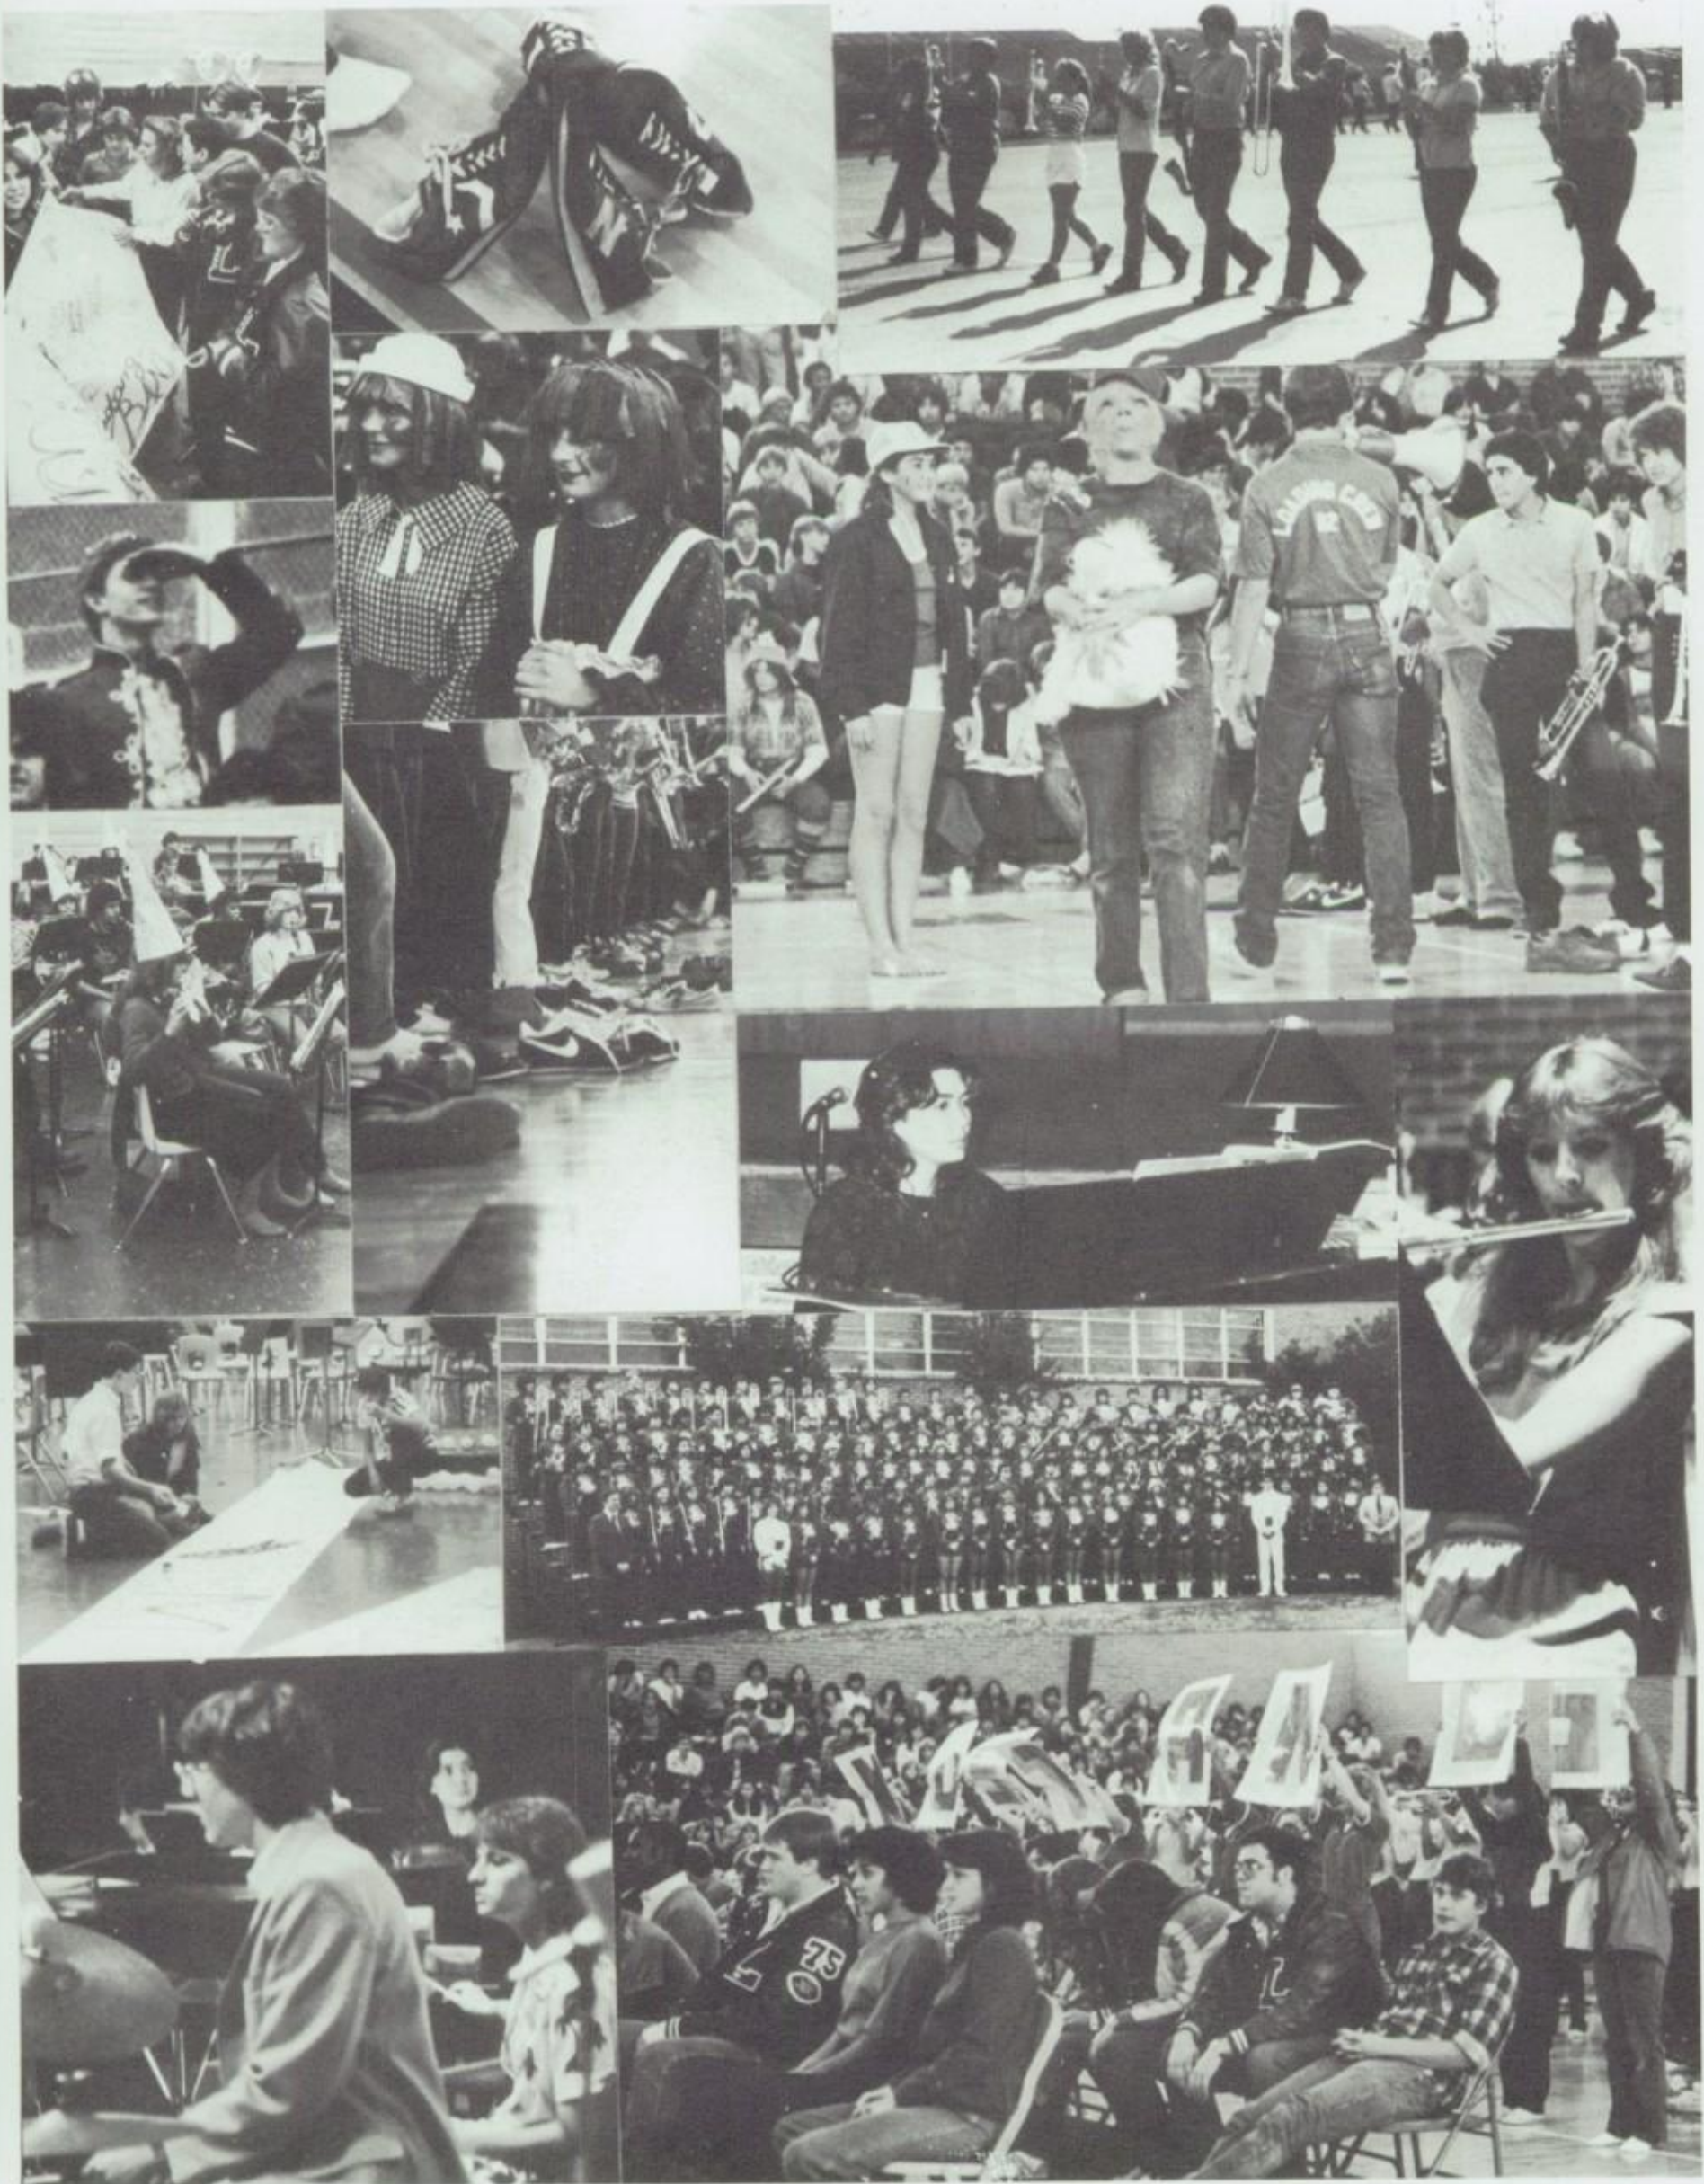

Kirby Nelson is the first to be served and he anxiously awaits his plate so he can grub.

Ruth Allen goes through the old books donated to the band to sell, to see if one suits her fancy.

Reflections of the Good Times!

We Penny-Pinched for

On May 6-8, Concert band attended the World of Music festival contest at Six Flags with 19 other bands. The bands did not receive I-V ratings. Instead, five places of honor were awarded. Concert band received fifth place and competed as a first division symphonic band against other symphonic bands from Texas.

Known affectionately as K.C. (Kool Claude), Mr. Hedspeth enjoyed the swooping 5th place out of five places.

Mr. Hedspeth pauses between numbers on the contest stage, waiting for the judges to finish writing on their comment sheets and telling him to proceed.

Mr. Preuss lends a helping hand by holding up a contra bass clarinet while Mrs. Preuss takes care of a lot of purses.

"Whacha lookin' at, fool?!" asks Jay Stacy as he waits in line for a ride.

Florida Florida Florida Florida

During May 5-9, memories of disappointing ratings at U.I.L. competition were erased as the Symphonic band received first division ratings at the Florida Festival of the Arts competition. World renowned judges, Alfred Reed, Charles Minelli, and James F. Slutz, commented on the talents and abilities, concluding that the band was truly a first division band. Upon arriving in Florida, the band went to Clearwater Beach and was honored with a buffet dinner at the hotel afterwards. They performed for the judges on the 7th and attended the awards ceremony which was followed by a dance. A trip to Disney World provided a pleasing end for all the exhausted band members.

Most people used the beach for tanning purposes instead of bothering to go swimming.

Six-Flags and Florida

While attempting to catch a few rays with all his clothes on, Mr. Watson says, "I must hurry and catch the others, for I am their leader!"

On the white sands of Keystone beach, Daniel Almanza, known affectionately as Midnight, leaps to catch a frisbee.

Lamar's bathing beauties, Peggy Lopez, Clark Boyd, and Ruth Allen, enjoy the cold clear waters of Florida.

Piled into a room, Lamar band students enjoy a nice relaxing night while watching "The Shining" on cable.

Brad Brown carefully inspects for dust.

Naomi Guevara, inspects a Hacky Sac found on the floor of her room.

With mouse ears on head, Pam Sindel tells of the fun times the band had while in Florida and shares a hat with Mrs. Wilson.

After testing the water, Victor Castillo decides not to go in after all.

To a dear friend who I have known for a long time. Good-bye in the future and take care you. Do have a nice senior year. Friends Always, Naomi Guevara

All Girls? No Boys!

Mr. McDaniel is the choir director over all the choirs. He has initiated swing choir and madrigal choir and has been very successful in doing so.

Officers for 1982-83 Treble Choir were: Candace Engelhardt, VP; Allison Lindblade, Pres.; Brenda Slavinski, Sec.-Treas.; Robin Talasek, Librarian.

Treble choir sang and entertained the student body during the lunch periods.

Easy to Make Money?!?

Much publicity was published all over Rosenberg-Richmond as shown on the decorated bulletin board.

The choir had many fund raisers, but the choir booth at the fair was probably the most enjoyable.

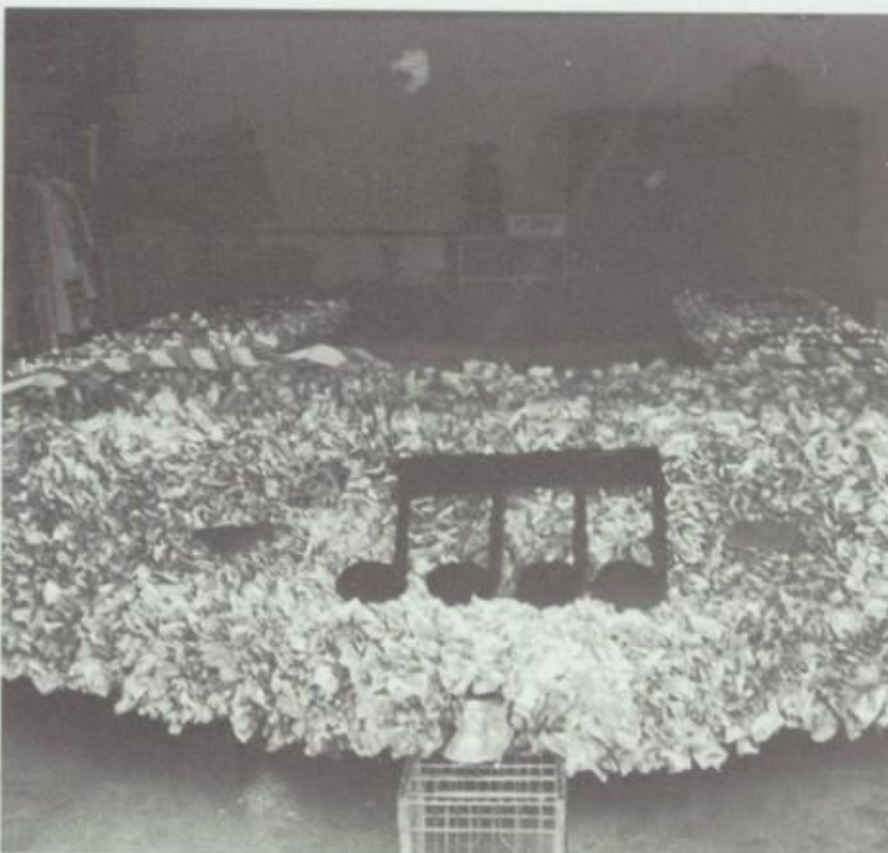

Some of the choir members, still smiling and waving, sang through the hot parade.

The choirs had many fund raisers, like the fair booth, the musical. They also sold Christmas decorations. They worked hard, but had a good time.

Venessa Bass shows how to take orders the professional way.

A lot of hard work and time went into the choir float.

Practice, Practice, and More Practice

At first, circles were needed to know where to go.

A lot of hours of practice and preparation was put into "The Sound of Music." Work starts in November and is presented in February.

Monique White and Lucy Kunkel seriously concentrate on their lines.

Lucy Kunkel and Alicia Robeff concentrate on applying their makeup just right.

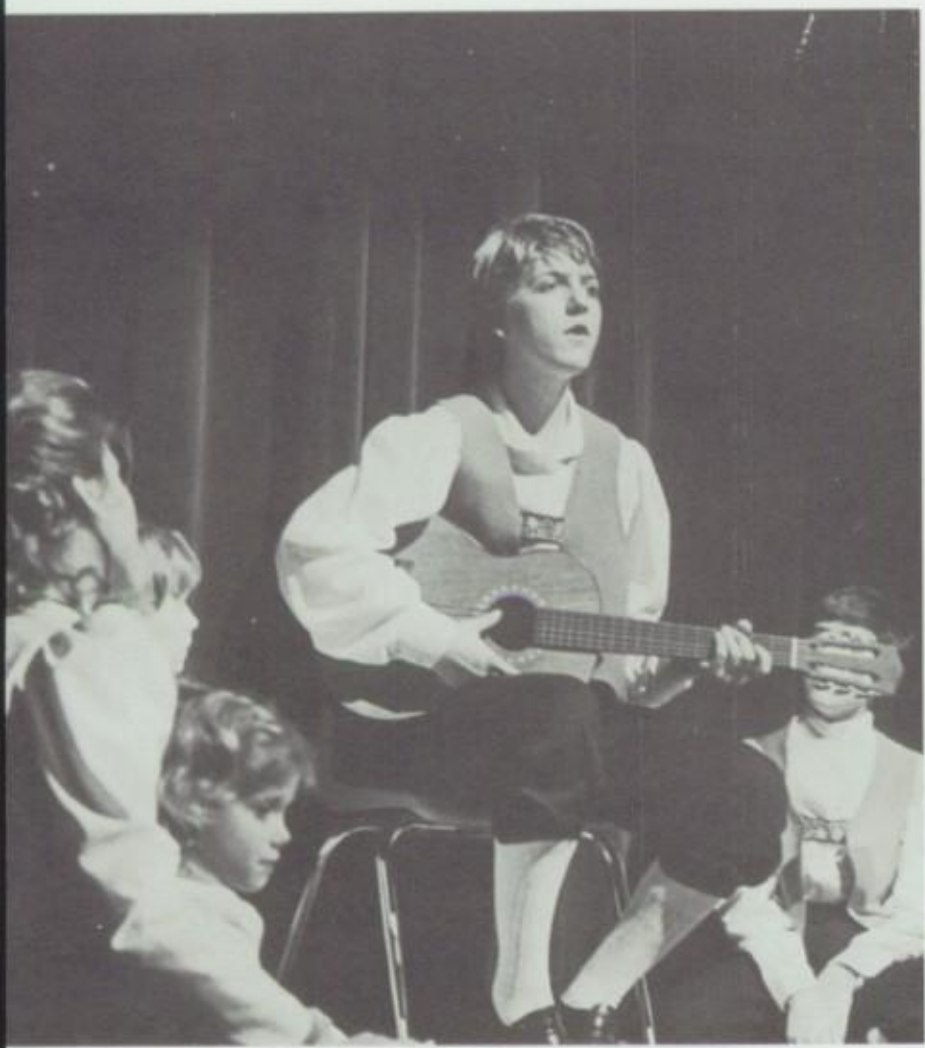

Looking up and a steady hand is the key for eyelining.

Noticing this; isn't it amazing how the musical sets were so pretty.

In Case of Emergency; Know Your Parts!

The understudies of the major roles of "The Sound of Music" do not often get enough credit. If something happened to the leading roles, the understudies would be there to continue the show. Much thanks to these people.

Debbie Benes prepares her part well as she shows her talent in her dance.

Everyone gathers together as a storm approaches.

Kenny Davis is shown how to hold Cindy Benes's hand the right way.

Steve Ochoa shows Tim Kaminski how to hold the serving tray.

All Work, No Glory!

Under the spot-light of their own making, the light crew is reminded of their cues by Mrs. Slawinski.

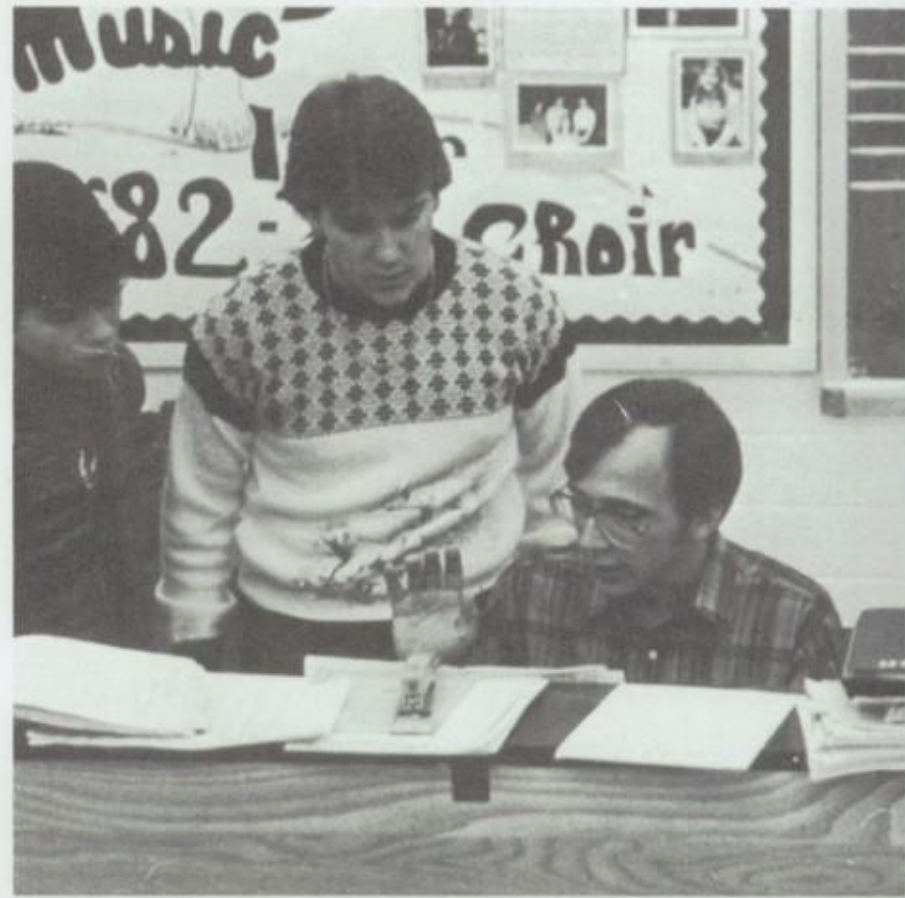

Leah Haynes waits patiently as her makeup for the musical is carefully applied.

Chris Allio becomes a "debonair Australian" with the help of Laura Brittan.

Without the "Behind the scenes people," the musical would not go on. These people put together the props, lights, and the makeup. They work hard to make things run smoothly and look realistic.

Mr. McDaniel shows Steve Ochoa and Darin Wheeless the right notes to sing.

Wallpaper fireplaces look just like brick fireplaces with a little practice.

"The Sound of Music"

Maria, portrayed by Monique White, arrives at the Von Trapp Home to be the children's governess.

Captain Von Trapp's children are called to attention to meet Maria.

The Von Trapp's had a dinner party and a dance. It was a gala affair.

Becky Beegle (Brigitta) and Leah Haynes (Louisa) dance away while singing goodnight.

Cindy Benes (Liesl) sneaks into Maria's room after a rendezvous with Rolf Gruber.

Maria reluctantly gets ready to go back to the convent.

Maria hesitates and recalls the fun she had with the children.

Everyone Needs a Little Musical in Their Life

Ben Trevino (Max Detweiler) attempts to cheer up the children after Maria leaves for the convent.

Max and the children sing and play to help forget about their sorrows.

The three sisters and Lucy Kunkel (Mother Abbess) sing about Maria's consistent struggle with being a nun.

The nuns, while singing the morning hymn, start the morning mass.

Liesl kisses her father while wishing him a reluctant congratulations on his decision of marrying Elsa Schraeder.

Maria dreams of a pleasure filled life while at her secret hide-away.

Before Time Ran Out . . . Many Saw the Musical

The children run to greet Maria after her trip to the convent.

Maria and the Captain's wedding was performed at the convent.

Todd McDaniel (Herr Zeller) informs Max Detweiler that they have to leave or the Nazis will control them.

Maria and the Captain share a romantic moment after revealing a hidden feeling for each other.

Maria's wedding is confirmed by the nuns.

The Von Trapp family sang at the Festival right before their get-away.

Rockin' Round the Clock

Lisa Benton, a brave freshman, shows her courage while singing a solo.

Nancy Montoya, one of the choir "Extroverts" charms the crowd with a moving song.

In Mom's clothes, Leah Haynes and Michele SanMiguel sing a duet.

The Quartet of Steve Ochoa, Darryl Gurecky, Tim Kaminski, and Darin Wheelless entertains the audience with a farewell performance.

Burke Kealey presents a "gag" award to Todd McDaniel.

You Can't Take It With You

"You Can't Take It With You" is about the Sycamore family, who has little money, and the Kirbys, who are rich. Tony falls in love with Alice. She is considered an outcast by the Kirbys because of her unmaterialistic lifestyle. Alice sees that marriage to Tony will never work. Meanwhile, Tony knows the Sycamores are right because his parents are self-centered and egotistical. Therefore he converts to the happy, carefree life of the Sycamores, instead of the stuffy, well-to-do life he was used to. Tony and Alice realize that they can make their lives happy together.

The Haunting of Hillhouse

On December 7 and 9 the Drama Department performed "The Haunting of Hillhouse." Some of the early happenings of Hillhouse are murder, suicide, and robbery. Luke Sanderson, who owns Hillhouse, and Dr. Montague invite Theodora and Eleanor to come to Hillhouse. On the first night, Eleanor and Theodora hear a noise in the hallway from their room. Luke and Dr. Montague go to see what is wrong. Luke discovers a message in the hallway, "HELP ELEANOR, COME HOME!" She thinks her mother is calling her. The others convince her to leave. Her soul is saved from "The Haunting of Hillhouse."

FT BEND COUNTY CZECH FEST

Stephanie Zierke and Debbie Werner put on a show for people at this year's Czech Fest.

The 8th Annual Fort Bend County Czech Fest was held on Friday, May 6-Sunday, May 8. The drama classes performed skits on Friday night and Saturday afternoon. The Clown and Mime Troupe performed throughout the three days entertaining the Czech Fest visitors. Sandy Flint and his Magical Mysteries performed during the three days at the outdoor stage. Claude Sims, a "madd" juggler from Astroworld, juggled various objects for children and adults. The Lamar Fillies had a booth that sold cupcakes, cotton candy, and peanuts.

Sue Kaminga, Deanna Michna, Tracy Moreno, and Steven Ochoa practice their version of the Coke commercial that was to be performed on Friday, May 6, at the Czech Fest.

Students stack up after their Coke commercial is over, but it's not the Coke you drink.

Thespians Doing Their Part

Karen Trees and Jason Sweatt help other Thespians decorate the foyer in front of the auditorium for the Homecoming festivities on October 15.

At Huckleberry's Restaurant, Suzanne Macan and her date, David Macha, patiently await for their dinner at the Thespian Banquet on Saturday, April 30.

To be a Thespian you have to be in a drama class and you have to be invited to join. You have to earn hours by working in or on a play. A certain amount of hours earns you an invitation. For fund raising, Thespian Troupe 2806 held their yearly Christmas greenery sale and bake sales.

At the Thespian Banquet, Meredith Muegge performs a skit for entertainment.

Mrs. Slawinski, Becky Slawinski (her daughter), Mrs. McCulloch, and David Neigsh watch one of the skits while waiting for their dinner.

Motto:

"Act well your part; therein all the honor lies."

Purpose:

To further the purpose of the advancement of the dramatic arts in secondary schools.

The Arkansaw Bear

The Arkansaw Bear is about a girl named Tish who doesn't understand why her grandfather has to die. She runs away to her special tree, where she meets the World's Greatest Dancing Bear. The Dancing Bear is going to die and he also doesn't understand why. When death calls on the Dancing Bear, Mime and Tish help him plea for some extra time. Together the Dancing Bear and Tish find out and understand why people have to die. This was Lamar High's entry in the U.I.L. contest at Victoria Junior College in Victoria, Texas.

Mime, the Dancing Bear, and Tish wish to a star to save the Dancing Bear's life.

Starbright, the first star out at night, gets frustrated trying to make Tish's wishes come true.

In U.I.L. competition at Victoria Junior College, Debbie Werner won All-Star cast and Stephanie Zierke received an honorable mention.

The Arkansaw Bear was dedicated to Miss Sheri Reed. She was our classmate and our friend.

The Lamar Clown and Mime Troupe has performed at events throughout the 1982-1983 school year. On April 22, they performed at the Czech Fest Open House at the Chamber of Commerce building. The Open House was to give people a sample of what was to take place at the Czech Fest. They were hired by Joe Hubenak Chevrolet to persuade people to come look at cars and to hand out balloons to the children on April 30. They also walked around and entertained people at the 8th Annual Fort Bend County Czech Fest on May 6-8.

Seniors: 4 Years in Drama

Seated: Jim Kolb, Sandy Mercer, Meredith Muegge, Erin Hancock, Suzanne Macan, Sylvia Armstead. Standing: Sonya Woods, Barbie Borak, Laura Drachenberg, Denise Shanks, Debbie Werner.

During high school Jim has displayed his talents by performing in 10 plays. After graduation, he plans to attend Wharton Junior College. Jim has also received Honorable Mention as Defensive End in football.

Sandy has participated in 10 plays throughout high school. Sandy plans to continue her education by majoring in Aerospace Engineering plus Theater-dance at Southern Texas State Univ. and then move to Texas A&M. Her awards include graduating 6th in her class, top 10%, NHS member, honored Thespian (81-82), L award in drama (80-81), and individual debate awards.

Meredith has played parts in 9 plays throughout high school. She is going to attend the University of Texas under the College of Communications. She wants to take Jan Glen's place on "Good Morning, Houston," moving up to "Good Morning, America." If that doesn't work, she plans to attend Law school. Learning F.F.A. Skills, Not the Easy Way Out Future Farmers of America (FFA) is a vocational course which gives students an opportunity to broaden their skills in the agriculture field. Students learn skills which include welding, pipefitting, and other general farm skills. Students also study the different types of animals such as heifers, hogs, and dairy cattle. The co-op program allows FFA students to work at businesses that are agricultural related.

The FFA displays the banners that they have won throughout the years at District III competitions.

Start 'Em Up!

More than half of all Americans spend all of their time in the driver's seat of a car. With spending all this time in cars a driver should know something about cars. Auto Mechanics teaches the students different skills needed to repair and keep up a car. Upon completion of this course the students have a knowledge on how to fix transmissions, brakes, give major and minor tune-ups, and fix other specific things wrong with his car or others.

Greg Compeon, Dale Holub, Mike Pyka, and Chris Dostal take time out of class to admire the great job they did on the car.

Dale Holub uses his spare time to clean the valves on an engine.

Mr. Whitaker explains to Paul Capetillo how to set the front end alignment on a vehicle.

Auto mechanics students not only learn to repair cars, they also learn to clean their working area.

Brad Schmidt works hard to replace the brakes on a truck brought in.

Rick Jowarski reads instructions while Jimmy Driskell and Mike Bergan repair the carburetor.

The Perfectionists

Cosmetology is a three hour course offered to Lamar and surrounding Fort Bend high schools. The girls learn the fundamentals needed to get their beautician's license. They practice what they learn on mannequins, each other, and customers that come in to the class. Upon completion of two consecutive years of this course, the students are eligible for their beautician's license acquired at the Austin State Board.

Guest speakers from Fascination talked to the cosmetology students and explained different haircuts.

Jeanette Allen and Eunice Lopez practice shampooing on Amalia Lopez.

Eunice Lopez demonstrates the singeing of hair to remove split ends.

Eunice Lopez, Carol Shiflett, and Amalia Lopez design a showcase to show their fellow classmates different hair styles offered in cosmetology.

Boards + Nails = House

Building Trades students learn through self experience a clearly defined skill in the art of carpentry. During the year, they worked on the construction of a house in order to become familiar with the trade. The students also work on different buildings throughout the school district.

Mr. Egger explains to his morning class the rules of the class and what they will be doing that day.

The class makes an assembly line to load the bus with equipment needed for their project in Fairchild's.

Mr. Fix-It

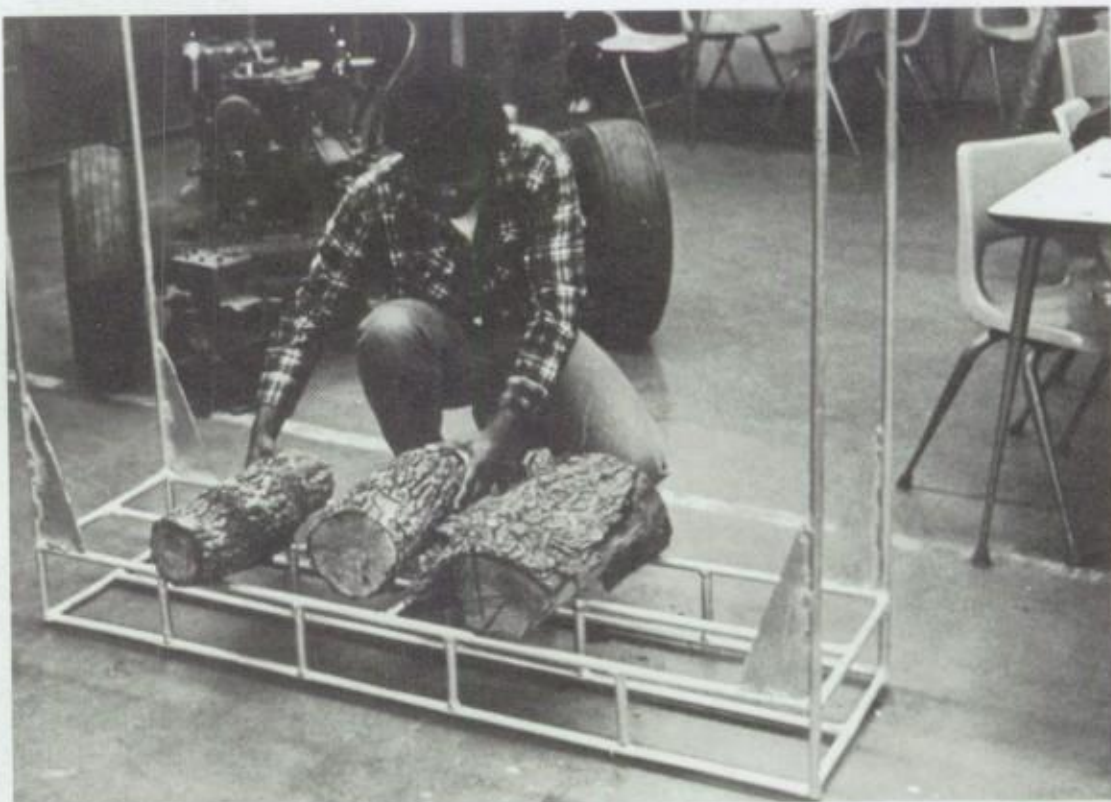

In General Mechanical Repair the students learn the ability of repairing small engines such as lawnmowers, and tillers. They also learn how to change a flat and install a radio. The students fix the lawnmowers and tillers of faculty members. They probably will even change a flat for you.

The students check with Mr. Duzan to see what might be the problem with the riding lawnmower.

Harvey Pena and Manuel Melendez help each other with the changing of a flat tire.

Arsheal Woods displays how his holder he made will hold firewood.

Work, Work, Work

Students in the Industrial Co-Operative Training program attend school half a day and then go to work. The I.C.T. program is to teach a student a skill or trade. After graduation most stay in their field of work. The classroom activities include learning manners for the job and seeing different films associated with it. The students are graded according to their employer's report on their work.

Scott Dicus talks to his boss and asks what needs to be done next.

Designed for the Professional Secretary

Vocational Office Education (VOE) is the instructional course designed for students interested in an office occupation. The two-hour junior lab provides intensive classroom instruction in office procedures and on-hands training on numerous office machines. The senior co-op provides 15-20 hours per week of paid, supervised on-the-job training in local businesses and one hour of daily classroom instruction. The Office Education Association (OEA) is the national youth organization for students enrolled in office education programs.

Social Studies: Love It, Hate It, Do It

Social Studies is a necessary subject that all Lamar students are required to take in order to graduate. Freshmen are required to take World History which takes students from customs and cultures of different countries to the second World War. A year's rest is all students are allowed until, as a junior, they attend a class in American History which covers the discovery of America until the present. The American government and the political system is pounded into graduation-minded seniors who must pass the course in order to receive the much coveted diploma in May. For college-bound seniors, Wharton County Junior College offers senior students the chance to take college history to get one college credit out of the way.

Amid the hustle and bustle of the halls, Bryan Gardner and Carmen Palacios exchange government polls.

Past graduates and half-asleep seniors drag to an 8:00 A.M. WCJC class. Lectures by Professor Morris give credit for three college hours of history.

Mrs. Arrington's American History class isn't all work and no play.

Memorizing facts takes a break, as groups become countries which make treaties and prevent war.

Government isn't always a thrill a minute.

With a class of only four students, Granger finds teaching World History a little more enjoyable.

Worst Fear: Broken Calculator

Two years of math are required for a student of Lamar High School. Lamar's many math courses are algebra, geometry, trigonometry, elementary analysis, and calculus, analytic geometry, and a special course called Fundamentals of Math consisting of multiplication, division, and other basic math skills. The courses at Lamar are designed to provide the student with an excellent background for college math, since many colleges today require three years of math.

Mrs. Haun looks on as her students muddle through calculus.

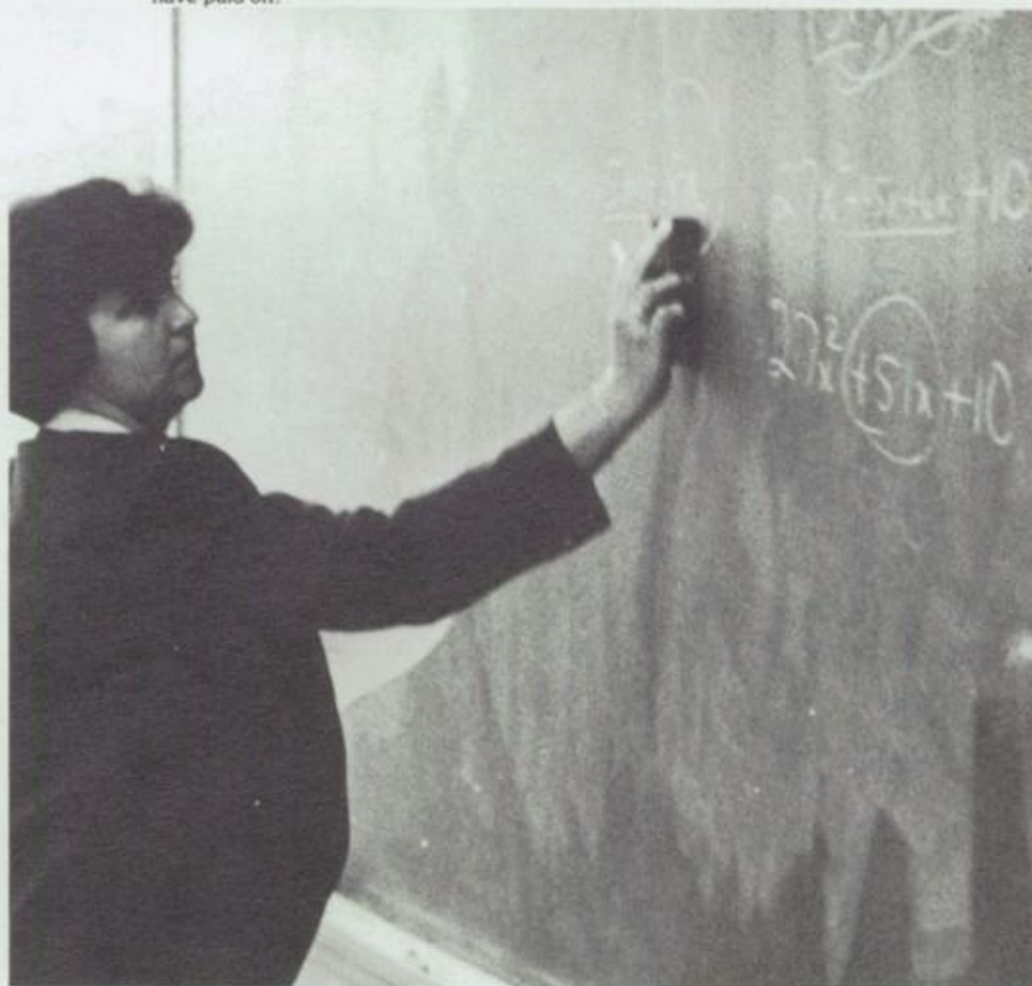

Scott Johnson labors over a difficult math problem.

$$\begin{array}{r} 2 \\ + \\ 2 \\ = \\ 5 \end{array}$$

Anthony Montoya and Cindy Macik are attempting to show that long hours of studying have paid off.

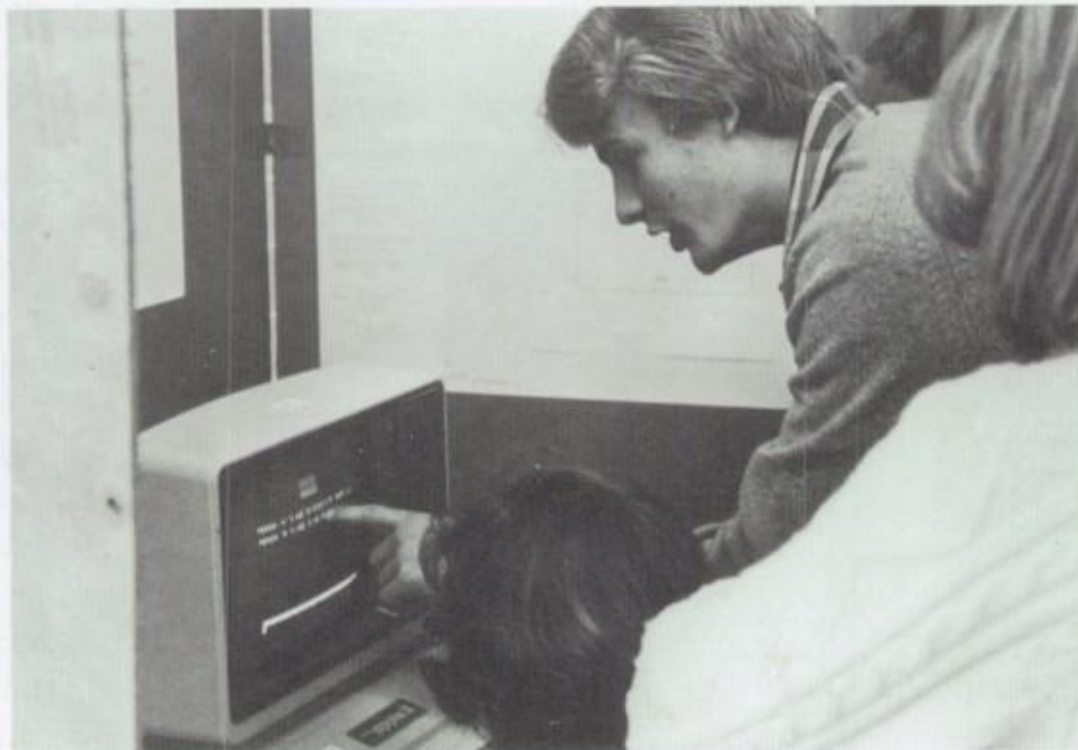

Mrs. Landes erases a hard day's work.

Much More Than Video Games

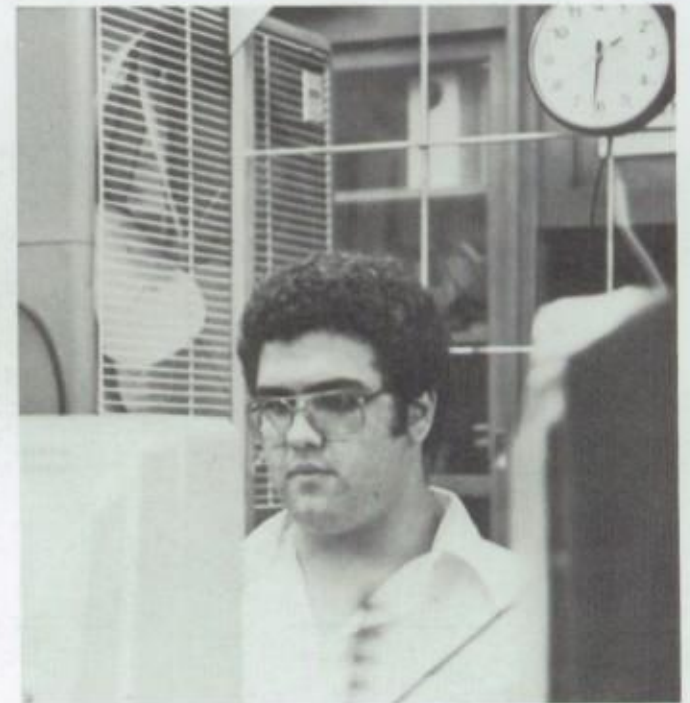

Computer Math is an extension of the many math courses at Lamar. Topics included are time sharing, input-output control, operations, and expressions. During the Christmas season, Mr. Starret's class is using the Apple II Computer for a special Christmas project.

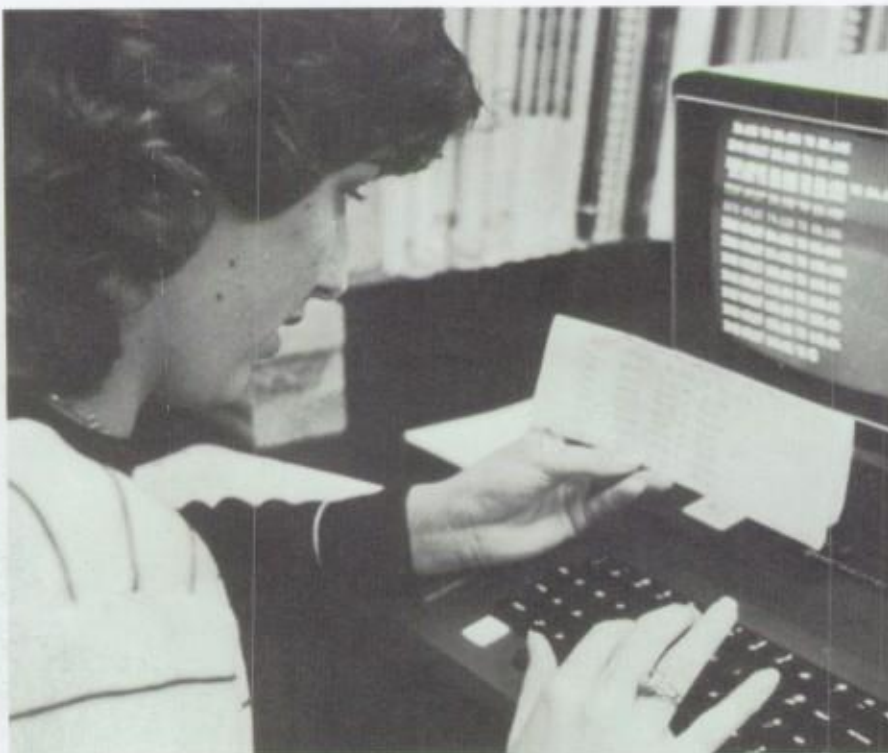

Cristyl Blase helps George Szymeczek debug his program.

Todd Malone demonstrates his program at the Science Fair, to eager onlookers.

Beth Quinn creates her program the easy way.

Brian Jarisch plays guessing games with the computer: Who will win??

The Future Architects

Michele Dozier pauses for a second to figure out what to do next.

Mr. Douglas shows Delores Villaloboz the proper way to do a floor plan.

Mackie Almendarez uses a T-square to help him draw a straight line.

In this class, students learn the fundamentals of orthographic projection, section drawing, oblique drawing, and isometric drawing. Architectural Drafting studies models, rendering, details, sections, and plot plans. Technical Drafting is an extension of General Drafting and studies topographics and structural drafting.

Mr. Wallis helps Monique Grant with her floor plan.

David Edgar proudly puts the finishing touches on his house model.

More Hunt Than Peck and the Balancing of Bookkeeping

The typing class uses the touch system in its course. The students, by the end of the year, are able to complete outlines, themes, reports, business letters and long letters. The awards of typing are broken fingernails, eyestrain, and severe headaches.

Mona Kindred looks over the day's assignment.

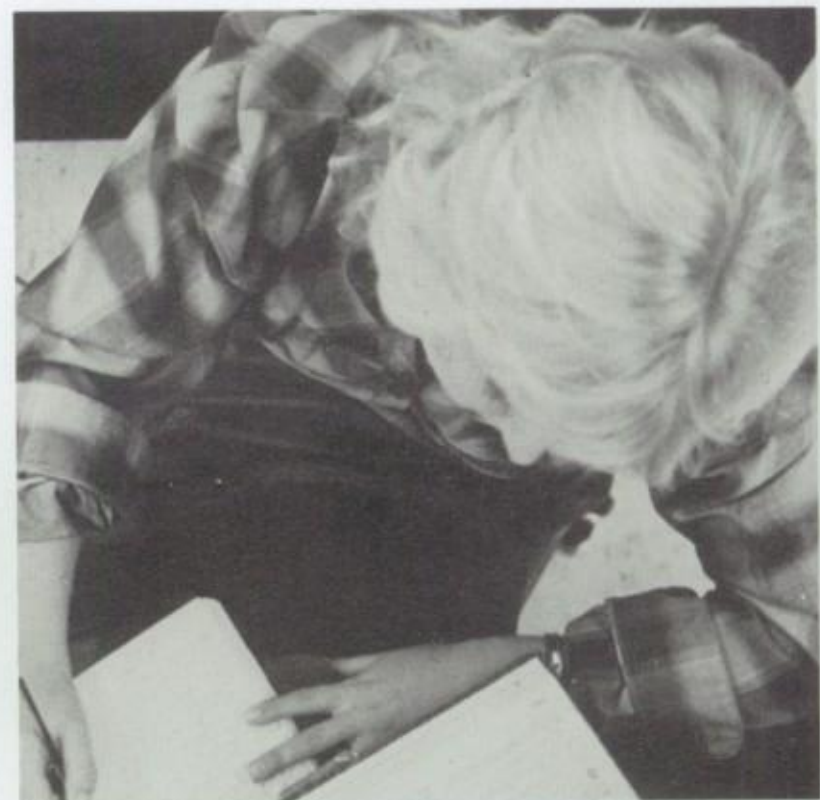

Gina Parthum concentrates as she deftly types out the finishing touches.

Michele Duyka slyly slips in a little reading from a "good" book instead of doing her assignment.

Mrs. Moore runs a tight ship and keeps a stopwatch in hand to time her students notetaking.

Shorthand is demonstrated by Pam Okruhlik. The question is: Will she understand it afterwards?

Unsung Heroes of the Office

Students in office assistance have many different jobs throughout school. Students help in the library, attendance office, nurse's office, reception area, freshman office, sophomore office, and switchboard. These students aid teachers with paperwork, get students for the principals, and are just all around go-fers. Doing the work that teachers don't want to is the main objective of an assistant. In addition, these students learn clerical and mechanical skills which are beneficial in later years.

Michelle Keefer, Caron Graves, Traci Mahler, and Emily N. Damon quickly post the absences of missing persons during 3rd period.

Working in the freshman office is an enjoyable task as Penni Pausewang looks up a poor, unfortunate fish for Mr. Smith.

Audio-visual assistant, Donald Stavino, looks through old book jackets to give to various departments to use in the display cases.

Chris Martinez peels off last year's taped teacher schedules from Mr. Hick's huge magnetic schedule board to prepare for this year's schedule.

Daniel Ramirez finds doing homework more interesting than checking for student's I.D.'s as they come into the library.

The Home of the Bookworm

While Lee Beeler is doing her Algebra homework Cindy Harrison takes time out to dream about guys.

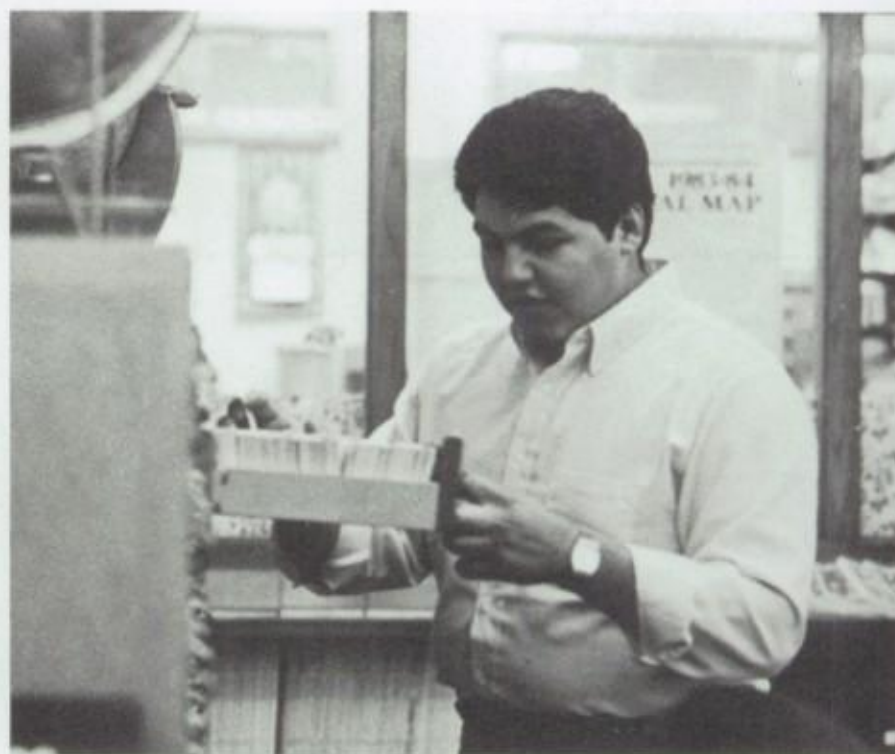

Jim Kolb, Greg Albright, and Laura Drachenberg try to figure out how to work the xerox machine so they can copy their history maps.

After working days in the library and nights at home, Randy Harrison smiles as he finishes his English report.

Lamar's library provides a source for research for Lamar's students. The card catalogue helps students easily find the book or books of their choice. The students also use the copy machine for copying information that is used in English, History, and Science. The audio-visual machines are used by the teachers and are effective aids in the classroom. Some students help with these visual aids and act as library assistants. The librarians and library assistants work individually with the teachers and students in searching for information in the library.

In between delivering projectors, films, and TV's, audio visual assistant Joel Aguilar spends his time looking up books for his term paper.

Ann Jankowski does early morning looking for the answer to the mystery of the research paper.

Hello, Salve, Bon Jour, Tache

Lamar offers four languages, French, Latin, German, and Spanish. In all languages the students are taught to read, understand, and speak the particular language. In completion of these courses, the student is able to converse, write short essays, and have an understanding of the origins of the language.

Mrs. Feinstein has Chris Colihan help tally up scores for French drills.

During Language Week, the Latin class participated by wearing togas to school that day.

The French class pitched in and helped make posters for the homecoming weekend.

The display put up by the French class got many looks of admiration.

An informal atmosphere exists in sixth period French class with Mr. Wright, which breaks the routine of heavier lecture classes.

Few people sign up for German out of the four languages of Lamar. The ones that do are in a class of their own.

Hoofbeat: The Written Result of Journalists

THE 1982-83 JOURNALISM CLASS — Sitting: Shelly Walger, Chris Colihan, Raylyn Watson, Paul Banda. Standing: Keith Gresham, Mr. Kell, and Jeffery Quasny.

The Journalism class at Lamar High School has a very important responsibility, they produce the Hoofbeat, our school paper. This paper informs the students of the happenings in the school. They must write copy, interviews, as well as editorials. For twenty-five cents one can get a good paper.

Keith Gresham gets ready to place an article in the paper.

Mr. Kell waxes the back of a picture to place it on the layout page.

After finishing the "Hoofbeat" Mr. Kell and his class enjoy their free time.

The final copy was free, as Journalist delivers, students enjoy.

The Freedom of Speech

On completion of this course, the student should confidently be able to deliver a speech in front of an audience. This gives students skills in research, analysis, and critical thinking.

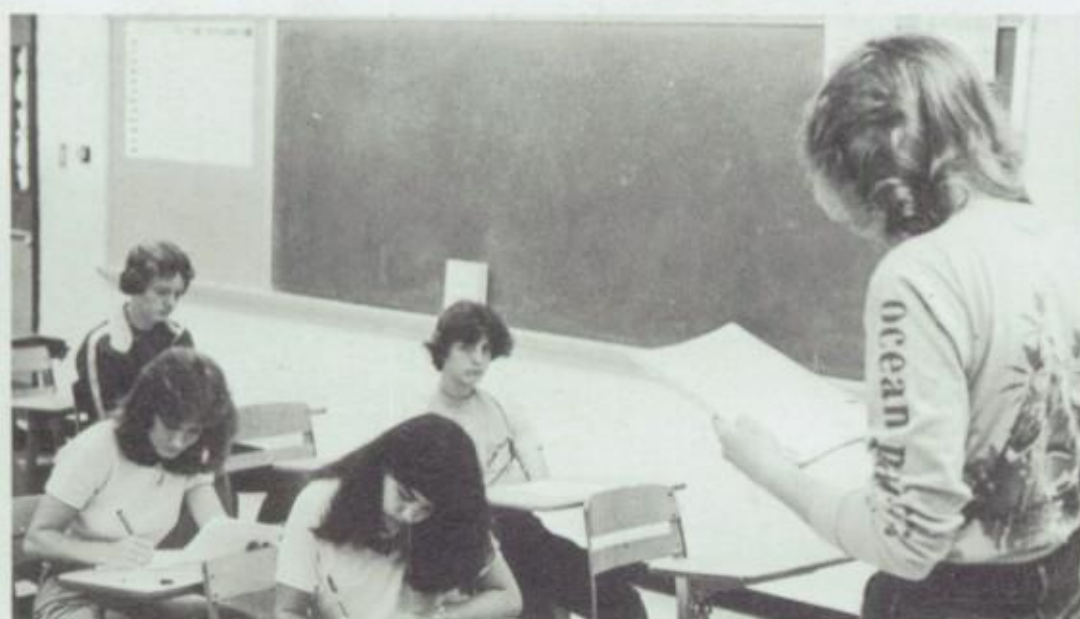

Kim Thompson with the ease of a professional.

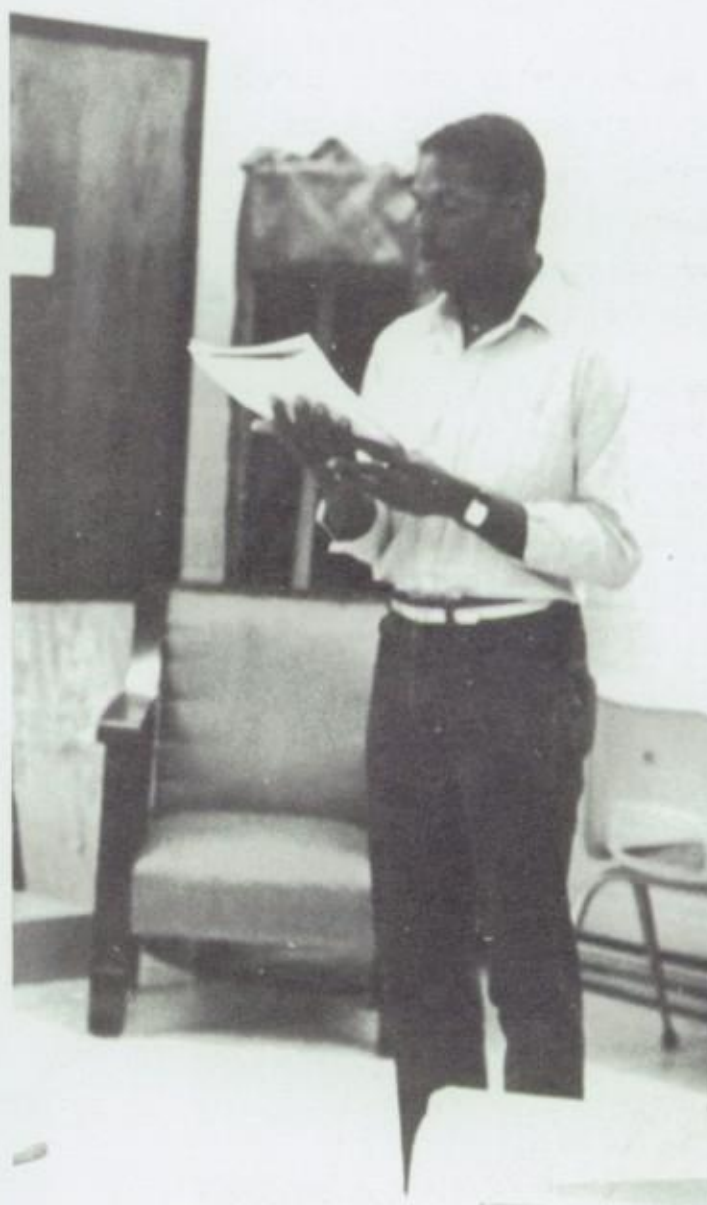

Mrs. Slawinski, known as "Mrs. S" keeps an individual check sheet on each student as they give their speeches.

Darin Wheelless grabs everyone's attention with his look of total confidence.

Giving a speech in front of an audience, even your classmates, can be very nervewracking.

It's Not Just "Playing" Around

The Drama class has many phases in its courses. One of the phases is the study of the theatre, as one of the chief divisions of art and literature. The Drama class also shows the actual acting and producing of plays to its audience.

Laura Britton is made up as a Joliet Clown during the weeks of learning how to apply stage make-up.

Stephanie Zierke, Erin Hancock, Kim Thomson and Laura Drachenburg rehearse for the one act play, "The Arkansaw Bear."

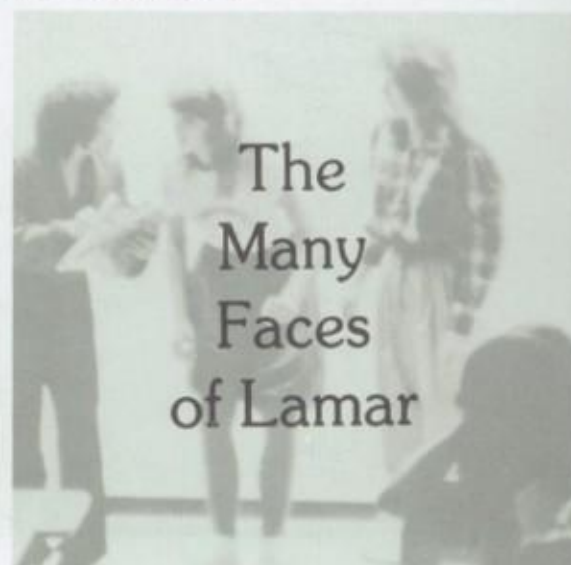

The fight scene staged by Mackie Almanderez and John Parker looks good enough to be real.

Nathan Peacock shows his stuff as an avid Kung-Fu fan.

Make-up day gives students a chance to experiment with greasy face paint and try out unusual facial effects. Windy Armstead displays a timely face.

Artists Create Objects for Visual Pleasure

Clay, watercolors, paint, and pencils help prepare a student for Lamar's art course. This class teaches a student the principles of art, consisting of proportion, still life, perspective drawing, and ceramics. A creative mind will produce creative art work.

A warm day brought out Meredith Muegge and Laura Rogers to draw perspective pictures of the school.

Western Art magazine becomes the focal point for Laura Rogers as Mr. Smith shows her the difference between color values.

In crafts students learn many skills that can be applied in work and homelife. They learn to increase their imaginations as they work on intricate designs. Some of the skills that are acquired are paper mache, leather crafts, macrame, decoupage, and ceramics. Crafts is a very industrious hands on experience.

Arnold Salas strains to look at a picture on the side board to get an idea of how to do watercolor washes.

Kim Jones, Randy Cook, and Paulina Rosales making candles out of old bottles.

Teresa Sutton showing Alice Bayer the proper way to wedge clay.

Planning for a Successful Household

The emphasis of this class is placed on learning the fundamentals of the 5 basic food groups, nutrition, consumer education, home management, and other subjects similar to these. Home and Family Living is a course offered only to seniors to prepare them for a family of their own. Topics discussed are family budgets, child planning, and purchasing cars and houses.

Color wheels were made in homemaking which had to do with interior decorating.

A team from the hair salon in Houston called Facinations came to discuss hair care and personal improvement.

A representative from the Texas Agricultural Products explains the qualities of eggs.

Woody Woodpecker Done Struck Again

Mr. Law receives a new scroll saw to aid in making redwood furniture.

Sammy Davila and David Fuqua align the "H" perfectly for the slogan LHS on the redwood furniture.

The finishing touches.

Showing their originality, shop students carefully place blocks spelling L.H.S.

Mr. Law's class proudly presents the finished product of redwood furniture to Mr. Watson.

Vincent Sherrod takes a test which deals with naming some tools used in shop.

This Program is a basic woodworking course where basic knowledge and skills are developed in the use of hand and portable power tools. Much emphasis is placed on practicing safe machine operation at all times. Students should be able to sketch the object in question and work out the steps of construction involved.

R.O.T.C.

The R.O.T.C. prepares every year for Major Lapinski, the Midwest Area Inspector, by practicing drills and classroom inspection.

The Recruiting Officer's Training Corps is a program that generally teaches about the United States Air Force. The students are instructed in the rules and regulations of Air Force life and the Air Force uniforms. A person who has three years of this program may enter any military unit of the United States Service with one insignia of rank and the attendant higher wages.

Michael Parthum and William Pope, two outstanding R.O.T.C. students, have been nominated to compete for admittance into the Air Force Academy.

The R.O.T.C. spend many hours going over the drills of military marching until perfection is achieved.

P.E. Works You Through in Style

Students play a quick, but friendly game of basketball.

A P.E. class plays a friendly game of football.

Physical Education is a required class that helps students stay in shape and gives them a chance to unwind. This class has many different sports such as volleyball, basketball, tennis, kickball, and softball. P.E. is challenging as well as fun. It also teaches the students the importance of sportsmanship.

William Barmore does a hurdler's stretch to stretch.

Diane Castillo, Lynell Wells, and Michelle Lindemann run laps around the gym to exercise.

During P.E. Arsheal Woods gets ready to hit a homerun.

Life in the Fast Lane

Between classes Sharla Powers visits with her friends Sonya Brashear and Rosalyn Mercer to find out the latest news in school.

Every day between classes students gather in the rotunda to visit, goof-off, and gossip with their friends.

Cafeteria time becomes homework time and eating time as Connie Charles uses her precious 25 minutes to finish next period's homework.

Sophomores from office duplicating decorate their hall before the big game with Dulles.

On Halloween dress-up day Jill Davis and Esmeralda Perez do homework, eat lunch, and discuss the Angleton game.

On dress-up day Jim Kolb prefers cafeteria food over bananas.

These Guys Assist the Big Guys

Hicks

At Lamar, Mr. Hicks, Associate Principal, has several vital duties. He makes teacher assignments, schedules students, deals with UIL, and is in charge of the Gifted and talented Program. Mr. Hicks this year has greatly improved and expanded the G and T program. Mr. Hicks' favorite saying is "Thank you, please."

Devine

The assistant principal, Mr. Devine, has been very successful at his job. Several jobs that he takes care of are substitutes, the bilingual program, all student activities, sponsor of the sophomore class, and attendance. Mr. Devine has been responsible for the added assemblies. Mr. Devine says he "appreciates working with great faculty and students."

Smith

Mr. Smith, who is also an assistant principal, holds several important responsibilities. For example, he takes care of the four academic areas, cares for the buildings and grounds, parking facilities, and textbooks. Mr. Smith is a strong supporter for a total program emphasizing first academics and then extracurricular activities. Mr. Smith's favorite quote is "No government demands so much from the citizens as democracy and none gives back so much."

Although the administrators are gathered together into one building, each office contributes important material and services to the community and schools. Not only do the administrators schedule and plan the various activities for the schools, but the administrators deal with personnel, food service, overall direction, maintenance, music, transportation, elementary and secondary education, special services, special education, athletics, and vocations. All of these services are necessary in order to run the schools properly, successfully, and productively. These people make us proud to be a part of LAMAR CONSOLIDATED HIGH SCHOOL.

BOARD

Because Rosenberg and Richmond's proximity to Houston, the Lamar district is becoming a bedroom community. Because of this expansion, the Lamar school district will have over 11,000 students. Problems of extra classrooms and lack of money to support this increase will be tossed upon Lamar's district school board. Through city elections, capable school board members are elected. These people give time, money, and their personal opinions for a job they don't even get paid for. These people accept many criticisms from parents and students. Although every school board member has a separate lifestyle and job at home, they give their all for the Lamar School Board.

Meeting in the conference room in the administration building, the school board handles the financial status of the district.

Mrs. Zdunkewicz, president, center goes over the agenda (notebook) page by page and consults superintendent Mr. Booher with any questions. Mrs. Greer, on the left, is the secretary.

Counselors — Lamar's Students' Problem Solvers

A Counselor's job is anything but a desk job. Their many duties vary greatly. Counselors give SAT, Achievement, and PSAT tests. They also help underclassmen decide on the courses they will take in the upcoming year. Still, counselors are there whenever students need them to discuss their problems. Going to college is a big step in a senior's life. Counselors also aid in this decision too.

Our counselors from left to right: Head, and Jr.-Sr. Counselor, Elaine Krause; Freshman Counselor Jeanne Haynes; and Vocational and Sophomore Counselor Bernice Schmidt.

Mrs. Schmidt assists Patrick Burgess with his schedule for the '83-'84 school year.

Ms. Haynes helps Chuck Johnson budget his time in order to get more studying in.

Mrs. Krause rejoices at the thought of getting through another day of testing.

Mrs. Krause helps future senior Scott Streater decide on what he will take in his final year in high school.

Mrs. Schmidt and Eric Teltschik collaborate on Eric's third year of high school.

Ms. Haynes tries to decide what to fill her plate with at a party given by the Student Council.

Our Counselors Are Here to Help

Mrs. Krause helps Jeff Sellers iron out all the wrinkles in his schedule.

Ms. Haynes assists Craig Minter in changing his schedule.

Mrs. Schmidt takes a moment to look at a Career Planning Catalogue.

Mrs. Krause helps Carmen Cosby plan out Carmen's final and most exciting year in high school.

Ms. Haynes shares a light moment with freshman Wilson Lawson.

Mrs. Schmidt and Mrs. Engel go over lists to see who has turned in their subject selection sheets.

Lamar's Nurse and Secretaries —

Lamar's nurse and secretaries have tough jobs. Mrs. Pollock R.N., our school nurse, has to make sure we see and hear and that our temperatures don't run into the red range. Our secretaries are the ones that type, phone, file, and gofer. Their job is one that is often unsung. We will be sad to see Mrs. Mikeska, Mr. Watson's secretary, retire after 19 years of service.

Mrs. Pollock, our school nurse, takes a long needed rest.

One of Mrs. Pollock's aides surprised her with a flower at the end of the semester.

Mrs. Pollock and Mr. Smith carefully go over with a student his health records to make sure everything is okay.

Mrs. Pollock goes through Lamar's many records to find the ones she needs.

LAMAR'S FABULOUS SECRETARIES — Seated: Mrs. Koenig — Front Receptionist; Mrs. Dominguez — Vocational Secretary; Mrs. Mikeska — Mr. Watson's Secretary; Standing: Mrs. Bass — Lamar's Registrar; Mrs. Engel — Sophomore secretary to Mrs. Schmidt and Mr. Devine; Mrs. Albritton — Secretary to Ms. Haynes and Mr. Smith; and Mrs. Andrews — secretary to Mrs. Krause and Mr. Hicks. Not Pictured: Mrs. Luksa — Attendance Clerk.

What Would We Ever Do Without Them?

Mrs. Mikeska does her daily job of going through the mail before putting it into the teacher's boxes.

Mrs. Dominguez carefully counts all the money resulting from candy sales in the Vocational Department.

Mrs. Koenig and assistant Cecilia Saucedo take on the important job of counting all of the money that comes through the front office.

Mrs. Luksa checks on yellow slips to make sure that everything is in order.

Mrs. Engel sorts through Sophomore schedules to see where certain students are.

Mrs. Bass transfers test scores to a student's folder.

Mrs. Andrews tries patiently to work the forever-broken copy machine.

Mrs. Albritton sifts through the Freshman files for Melissa Medina's folder in order to use it for subject selection.

Where Else Could You Get Cowboy Macaroni?

CAFETERIA WORKERS — Gertrude Callaway, Mary Hacker, Bessy Grieger, Rose Murphy, Lee Brandt, Tommie Casias, and Minnie Riedel.

CAFETERIA WORKERS — Janel Wick, Thelka Blase, Inez Thorson, Maxine Niscavits, Josephine Jan, Mgr. Earline Pollock.

Each Lamar cafeteria worker has served productively, worked hard, and strived to improve the service and quality of the food that is served to each Lamar student. At approximately 7:00 o'clock every morning, they prepare and at 8:00 o'clock they serve breakfast for various students who wish to eat. Lunch is also prepared at this time. A menu and selected titles for foods, such as Happy Jose, Peach Pizza, or Terrific Wiener Burgers are prepared weekly by Mrs. Pollock. Hard work is the Ingredient which makes the various Dishes and Delights so delightful.

They Do a Clean Job

THE MEN — From Left to Right: Pete Gomez, Henry Coffman, Daniel Esparza, Walter Owens. THE LADIES — From Left to Right: Juanita Fuentes, Lisa Salazar, Anita Steinocher, Rosie Alainz, Frances Bijarro, Vina Neal, Katherine Young, Trinidad Villarreal, Willie Flora, Ella Harris.

A cooperative staff is an important asset to be able to get the job done. On Lamar's campus, there are numerous jobs involved in keeping the school in tip-top shape. The halls must be swept, the bathrooms cleaned, the chalkboards erased, the trash emptied; the list goes on and on. The people in the picture on the left and right do their jobs well. Great time and patience is needed to endure this type of job day after day.

Teachers Are People Too

Some students may think of them as tyrants at times, but what would we ever do without them??? The above description could only fit one group of people — our fabulous, wonderful, courageous teachers of Lamar.

Some of our beloved teachers show their spirit by wearing their new Faculty shirts every Friday.

Beneath that tigery exterior lurks our own Mrs. Ansel.

Miss Landes helps Mrs. Davis work out the new teacher schedules.

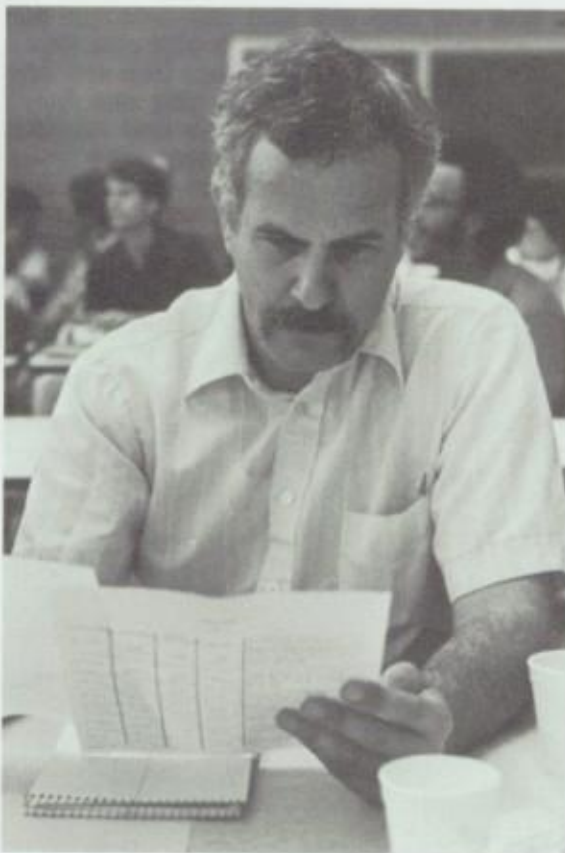

Halloween dress up produced a clone of Mr. McDaniel right down to the argyle socks.

An excited Mrs. Johnson sifts through her papers to see which to keep and which to throw away.

Mr. Douglass dutifully signs in while Mrs. Dominguez, Vocational Secretary, looks on.

Mr. Sandifer studiously pours over some papers at a teacher's meeting.

Coach Filoteo goes through the exciting daily routine of the lunch line.

Be a Teacher — Be a Leader

Our teachers at Lamar keep a pretty hectic schedule at times. Some are honored with awards. Then again some can be found dressed in some of the most fashionable clothing on Halloween dress-up day. This year the teachers were served a breakfast given by the principal and assistant principals.

Mrs. Bowers shows her delight at being named Teacher of the Year by NHS.

Mr. Smith gives Mr. Nelson some ideas on what Mr. Nelson can do for his American History display.

Mrs. Doedyns, Mrs. Walker, and Mrs. Zierlein all take advantage of the breakfast given to the teachers by the principals.

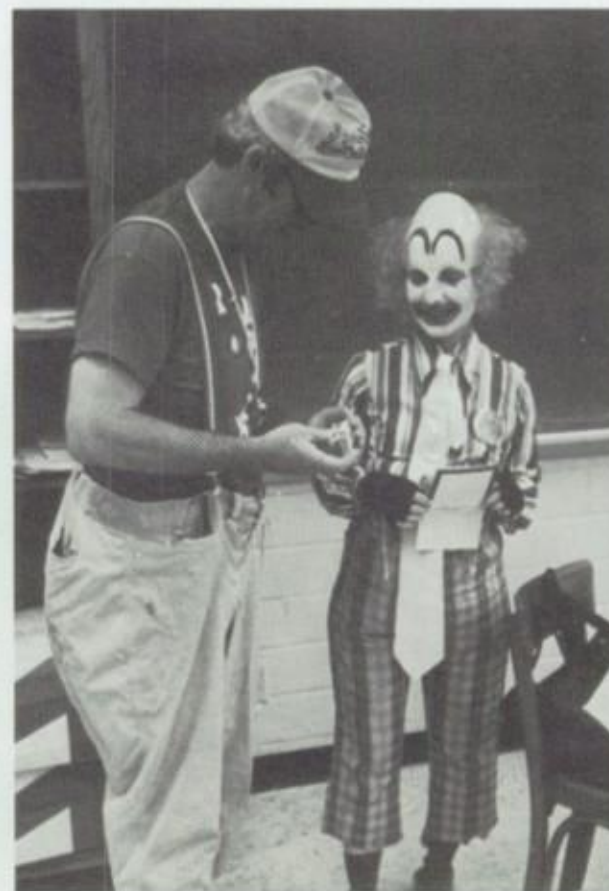

Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Zierlein were given special appreciation awards at the Athletic Banquet for helping the football coaches during football season.

Ms. Duren patiently awaits for the copier to be fixed.

Mrs. Smith gets a chance to chat with a retired teacher from the Lamar School District.

Coach Brown and Mrs. Phelan let their secret ambitions come out on Halloween dress up day.

Ms. Butler proudly announces her basketball team as Ms. Dominique looks on.

The Terrific Teachers of Lamar

Mr. Duzan, Mrs. Haynes, Mr. Green, and Mr. Watson pondered over class rolls before school started in August.

The Washington Close-up trip gives Mr. Kell forms, checks, and money which must all balance.

Faculty members fill up on goodies brought to a covered dish luncheon.

Miss Hahn and Mrs. Austin serve themselves at the Homemaking Christmas Luncheon.

Miss Villagomez gazes intently at drawings done by Art II.

Mr. Granger and students get hands-on experience with the Savin copier.

Coach Kidd records statistics from a basketball game so they can be read over the P.A. system the next day.

"Sexy Legs" Morris prepares for a stroll around Lamar. This is a daily routine to get the kinks out and try to keep in shape.

Several teachers relax and enjoy the luncheon that was given for teachers by FHA.

The students pictured have earned school awards ranging in the form of plaques, patches, or letter jackets for their work in the UIL District Literary meet. Each student was honored in their respective subjects. We, as Lamar supporters, should commend these students for their academic achievements.

Learning Still Strong in the Lamar District

The Lamar District School Fair is an annual affair which puts on display a cross-section of student work. As one strolls through the exhibits, one gets the feeling that most students are coming through with creative ideas and quality work. Exhibits are diverse, the new is there, computers along with barbecue pits, science, history, English, and the arts. Band and Choir groups round it out with student performances.

Homemade rolls and a pound of meat equal Poboy's.

Superintendent J. W. Booher toured the area many times. On many of these tours old students with families made the stops pleasant.

A student paper becomes worth looking for by the parents of a Lamar district student.

House plans and elevation drawings were one of the exhibits that captured parent interest.

The English table became a fillie break for Janie Guajardo.

Mr. Nelson from Lamar and Mr. Wigg from Terry guard the Social studies area and discuss the world in general.

A popular display for the kids was the stencil machine where Mr. Cmajdalka, distribution center chief, made stencils of the students' names.

School Year Projects Exhibited at the Fair Grounds

Mr. Hedspeth secretly lusts for a Honda as he listens to a band performance.

Darrin Wheelless, the man in charge of the sound equipment gets caught up in, put it up and away.

Lamar High School computer teacher, Hugh Starrett's exhibit of working computers was a popular kid hands-on display.

If it's your paper among the maze of many it's not that hard to find.

Lamar Retirees Honored at Final Meeting

Ruth Ansel

Dolores Mikeska

Ray Wood

William Whitaker

Ruth Ansel has been employed at Lamar for the last 28 years. Her unique memories are having the opportunity of influencing your lives. "Memories fade and slide away but never, never, of my cheerleaders," was one of her direct quotes. The kindness displayed by her fellow faculty members during her illness was much appreciated. In 28 years she taught Science, English, Typing, P.E., Health and was sponsor of the cheerleaders. Not one to sit around Ruth will play golf all over the world, travel, have fun and live one day at a time.

In her seventeen years at Lamar, Mrs. Dolores Mikeska has been secretary to principals, Guy K. Traylor, J. W. Booher and Raymond Watson. The years at Lamar for Dolores have been good ones with many great events and people that fill her memories. She plans to catch up on all the chores that have been put aside and do some traveling in their new trailer.

Mr. Ray Wood has been a member of the vocational faculty for 17 years. In 1966 he organized the I.C.T. program which is still in effect. Ray has many memories of Lamar but one that comes to mind is the first off-campus Prom which was held at Sonny-Looks in Houston. Being in charge he was concerned as to how many would show up, the year before sixty came when it was held in our cafeteria. 300 came to the 1st off-campus Prom, thank goodness a success. Ray is an avid fisherman and plans to do a lot of this and travel.

Mr. William Whitaker has worked in the vocational department as an Auto Mechanics teacher for 15 years. While employed at Lamar he was impressed by the kindness and generosity of the faculty during his illness. Mr. Whitaker plans to travel, fish and maybe play some golf after his retirement. He will retire to the plains of West Texas.
